PRIZE OF LOGS RAISED.
SECOND TIME IN MONTH.
TACOMA, Jan. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At a meeting of Grays Harbor Loggers' Association today, at Hoquiam, the price of logs was raised 50 cents more. It is now commanding $12, while an advance has been made on spruce and cedar, the former being now $10 and the latter $9 per thousand.

THIS is the second raise within a month, and it is thought that lumber will advance again after the first of January.

BOTH BURNED TO DEATH.
GIRLS CAUGHT IN FIRE.
SEATTLE (Wash.) Jan. 1.—A special to the Post-Intelligencer from Cedar Woolley, Wash., says that in a fire which destroyed the home of H. H.
Shrewsbury, today, Ruth and Iola Johnson, nieces of Shrewsbury, who were visiting at his home, were both burned to death.

The fire started before any of the family was up, and when it was discovered, the place was in flames. It was with great difficulty that the remainder of the household escaped.

All efforts to rescue the two girls were without avail. The cause of the fire is not known.

WALL KILLS ONE, HURTS TWO.
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—By the collapse of wall in the ruined building of the American Can Company at Seventh and Townsend streets, C.
Dueno, was killed and Blaino Wiereno
and Enriro Quescino, severely injured.
All were Italian laborers, engaged in clearing away debris.

DIES OF BURNS.
SACRAMENTO, Jan. 1.—Mrs. Rose
Johnson, who was burned last Saturday night by the explosion of a coal oil stove, died last night from her injuries. Deceased was the daughter of the late James Woodburn, who was a prominent wholesale house dealer and a pioneer of California.

UNLOADED GUN KILLS FRIEND.
SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.— Albert de Loma was accidentally shot and killed by Joseph Angeli at San Bruno, about 1:30 o'clock this morning.
The accident occurred after a number of friends had finished celebrating the birth of a child, and returned to the house for refreshments. Angeli, who thought he had fired all the shots from his revolver, pulled the weapon from his pocket, mistaking it for a pistol, and fired when the gun went off and his friend dropped dead.

FIRE DEVOURS DRUNKEN MAN.
STOCKTON, Jan. 1.—Tom Riley, an aged stranger, was burned to death
at an early hour this morning, his clothing being set on fire by some means unknown. He was seen in an intoxicated condition, walking along the streets, by two young men, his clothes ablaze. They succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but the man was so badly burned that he died within an hour.

TACK PEDIGREE
TO SHOW GIRL.
PEERS SAY SHE NEEDS IT IN THEIR FAMILY.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Private detectives engaged by haughty Lord Aberdare and his son, Hon. Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, have gone to America seeking a pedigree for the lordship's new daughter-in-law, formerly Miss Camille Clifford, the bewitching actress, a former favorite of all London theater-goers, dividing honors with Edna May.

MISS Clifford was formerly a Boston
girl, arriving there as a little Norwegian immigrant and working as a scrub girl for a Roxbury family.

Then she was taken into a New York woman's home as a servant, and finally went on the stage, achieving success as leading show girl in a number of companies before she went to London.

Lord Aberdare has sent detectives
to scour Germantown and Philadelphia, working down through the Clifford line, if possible, the future Lady Bruce with the colonial Clifords there,
and he is eagerly seeking papers said
to have been left by members of her family connected with Germantown Clifords.

Detectives state they have already found a very creditable line of ancestry for Mrs. Bruce. They expect soon to obtain enough evidence to warrant the old lord in taking his son's wife to his heart as well enough connected to enter an old English family.

LOSERS FREE DELIVERY.
Backwardness of Portions of New Orleans Causes Withdrawal of Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—First Assistant Postmaster-General Hitchcock
in explaining the action of the Post office Department in cutting off free-delivery service in certain portions of New Orleans, says:

"The order was first issued three months ago, but a number of the leading citizens asked that the order be withdrawn until January 1, when the improvements would be made at once. Since then the department has received no word from the citizens, and service was discontinued today, and will be restored when the city meets
the requirements of the government,
and makes necessary improvements."

NEW NICARAGUAN MINISTERS.
MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Jan. 1.—Joseph D. Gomez has been appointed to fill the posts of Minister of Foreign Affairs and Minister of Public Instruction, and Francisco Castro has been made Minister of the Interior and Finance. The country in general is quiet.

Long Search.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.
NEW HAVEN (Conn.) Jan. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After weeks of investigation among the effects of the late George A. Isbell, who died several months ago, stocks and bonds
have been discovered by the administrator amounting to $1,500,000. They were hidden in out-of-the-way places.

Over five hundred deeds to real estate property in nearly every State of the East, were also found.

YOUTH WRECKS TRAIN TO SEE CARS FALL INTO RIVER.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]
ALTON (Ill.) Jan. 1.—Orders were issued to the police today by Chief of Police Maxwell to shoot all mashers who annoy women on the streets and attempt to resist arrest. The order followed an unsuccessful attempt of Chief Maxwell to hit a masher who whom he fired. The Chief then issued
a general shooting order, and said he hoped his men would be better marksmen.

"The insulting of women on the streets by loafers and mashers must be stopped," he said.

YOUTH ADMITS GUILTY.
WANTED TO SEE CARS TOPPLE.
SALT LAKE, Jan. 1.—Roy Swartz,
the young telegraph operator who was arrested yesterday following the
wrecking of an Oregon Short Line
train at Peterson, Utah, which caused
the death of Engineer McPherson and
serious injuries to other trainmen, has admitted that he alone caused the trainwreck. The youth, who is the son of the station agent at Peterson, admits that he was prompted to the
deed by a desire to see the long freight
train plunge into the river below. Five
farmers who were arrested yesterday
have been released, though they admitted they had recently tampered
with the block signals at Peterson and
stopped freight trains that they might steal coal from flat cars. Some of these farmers will be re-arrested.

LOST SAVINGS IN ZION.
THEN SHOT ELDER ROPP.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The mysterious shooting surrounded the shooting of Elder Ropp,
one of John Alexander Dowie's
closest followers and friends at Zion
City, was cleared up, today, when the police learned that his assailant, Rudolph Zollinger, fired the shot while in
a frenzy over losing his life savings,
which were invested in Zion enterprises.

Zollinger, still raving, was closely guarded in Shiloh House today. He is said to be almost a maniac, as the result of his losses.

"I'm a pauper. Dowie got me to sink my savings in his business and
has ruined me," he raved. Zollinger,
after he was overpowered by police,
was shot by night fireman at Shiloh House.

Bottle Containing Second Message

Picked up on the North Coast of Ireland—Says She Was Sinking
Fast.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.
LONDON, Jan. 1.—There has been washed on the beach at Castle Rock,
on the north of Ireland, a bottle containing a message from several members of the crew of the ship Huronian, which disappeared in the spring of 1902, to the effect that she was sinking
fast.

This is the second time the Huron-ian has been heard from since she sailed from Glasgow February 11, 1902.
For St. John's, N. S.

The Huronian belonged to the Allan line. She was first reported overdue early in March, 1902, and when nothing had been heard from her by April 1,
the British Admiralty, at the request of the owners,
ordered the cruiser Thames to search for the missing steamer, and in the latter part of April the cruiser Belmont was ordered to the North Atlantic to search for the missing steamer.

The search was kept up by these two cruisers until well into May, but no trace of the Huronian was found.
The search was then abandoned, and it was not until June 2 a bottle was picked up forty-five miles east of Hallow, containing the following note,
written on a scrap of paper:

"The steamer Huronian turned over board in the Atlantic. In small boat, fourteen of us."

ity to Handle Business.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.
GUTHRIE (Okla.) Jan. 1.—A large number of mill men, grain, lumber,
and coal dealers in Oklahoma,
today sent the President a petition alleging inability on the part of the corporation to properly handle the freight and passenger business offered to it for transportation.

The petition is the direct outcome of the car shortage from which the interests represented by the signers of the petition are still suffering. The petition states that the Rock Island Railroad is unable to handle but a small part of the public traffic.

MANGLED BY A LION.
Trainer Henry Ray Has Both Sides, Shoulder and Breast Lacerated in Spectators' Presence.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.
TOLEDO (O.) Jan. 1.—While performing an act, Henry Ray, a trainer with the Boston Animal Circus, was attacked by one of the lions, and killed. He had both his sides, his shoulder and breast lacerated.

With great presence of mind, Ray fired his pistol just as the attendant's opened the safety doors of the cage.
Two other lions in the cage immediately made for the opening, followed by the attacking animal.

The injured trainer was taken to a hospital, and it is feared his injuries
will result fatally. The large audience realized what had happened, but remained orderly.

FATALLY BURNED.
BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 1.—Rafael Garcia was burned fatally this morning made for the opening, followed
by the attacking animal.

Constable Strobel found Garcia lying by a camp-fire and burned hor-ribly about the legs and chest. He could give no account of how he came to be in such a deplorable condition.
At the County Hospital the surgeons
say he cannot live through tonight.

Big Crowd Turns Out to See
New Year Races.

There was more talk about the finish
of the Clearlighter race at Ascot Park
yesterday and it wasn't the race he ran Thursday either, when the judges gave his victory to Merlingo, but the race he ran with A. Muskoday yesterday. There were a good sized bunch of sports who said he beat Muskoday
as far as he beat Merlingo, but the judges didn't see it that way and gave yesterday the verdict. It didn't make much difference as a betting proposition
for the bettors practically overlooked
both Clearlighter and Muskoday, paying their money on Gorgaleto and J. F. Donahue, Gorgaleto managing to get into the finish.

Donahue, who is even as the owner of Clearlighter, should get another payout than W. Riley, for he is an awful man as a rider. He has been on the Clearhouse twice where there were other horses and both times he has been a drag, the horse running on his own nerve. However, if the Clearhouse did not win his owner had the fun of seeing Muskoday's victory, costly
as it was, for after the race Donahue
was on Muskoday up from his endowed price of $200 to $2000 and the owner retained him with the custodian of $25. Four favorites were shown by Elizabeth F. who was in a mile by six lengths, after being over nine lengths at six furlongs last Friday.

In the crowd was present and they were bitterly cold.

Donahue, 101 (Gargaleto) 3 to 5.
102 (Callahan) 10 to 1.
103 (Sheriff Bell) 10 (Keogh) 20 to 1.
Time, 1:45. Myrtle H. Seed
don't run. Respirator, Rudinal and Fox also ran. All right left at the post.

Two furlongs: Katie Rains, 101
2 to 1; 102 (Kismet, Jr.) 11 to 1.
103 (Smith) 20 to 1; 104 (Maggie);
105 (Hanna); 3 to 1; 106 (Time, 107 (Vince C. East); 108 (Tide, Man-ny Talk, Connie A. Booger Red, Belle Bairn, Decorator, Argentine,
Belle Jane, Maid of Orleans and Olinda also ran.

Elizabeth F. 102 (Daniel) 10 to 1.
103 (Smith) 10 (McDaniel) 3 to 5.
104 (Belvoir) 10 (Preston) 3 to 1.
Time, 1:43. Uncle Henry, Kismet, Van Hope and Kinsman also ran. Turkey Foot of Montana, one of the richest men in the country, few, if any, in Washington ever saw this multi-millionaire in a cab, but every-
day he may be seen waiting on a corner or chasing his way through the
vehicles of this thoroughfare to board
the economical trolley.

Pioneering by Motor.
An interesting experiment in the adapting of automobiles to purposes of traction in regions so little reclaimed
as the Congo is now being made in the Rubi-Welik district of the Free State. It is a couple of months ago
a practical road rather more than ten miles long had been made, and motor wagons loaded up to a ton or slightly over were making the journey daily
at a speed of about six miles an hour.

It has to be remembered that this road
is not the paved street of civilization.
The aim is to cut a great main road for motor wagons through the whole region.

A Wealthy Beggar.
An aged beggar named Gerlach, who died in hospital at Budapest last month, was found to have in his pocket
banknotes and securities worth $2000.

He was a well-known figure in the Hungarian capital, and remarkable even among beggars for the fact that he was a doctor of three faculties, and had taken the highest academic honors that can be obtained at his university.

A New Stomach
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Restore Lifeless Organs to Normal Condition.

A TRIAL PACKAGE FREE.
Many a sufferer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion and kindred ailments of the digestive organs carries around an absolutely useless stomach—a dead load, and a cesspool for ever-increasing disorders.
The muscles are seemingly worn out,
the mucous lining has lost its secretive power, and food taken into the stomach
is not broken down and absorbed, causing eruptions, belchings, heartburns, distress and other distressing conditions.
Many sufferers have given up in despair
until they have been induced by some interested friend to try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's sure and only hope. They are a natural restorative of healthy action to the stomach and small intestine,
because they supply just the elements
that the weak stomach lacks—pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other digestive.

If you are afflicted with any of the symptoms above described, be assured that your digestive organs are losing power—they need help and there is no more sensible help to be given them than to supply elements which will do the work of digestion for them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been found by the test of reputable physicians in the United States and Great Britain to have remarkable digestive powers, a grain of the active principle of these tablets being sufficient to digest 2000 grains of ordinary food. It is plain that no matter what the condition of your stomach, or how far your disease
has progressed, one only of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken at meal time will do the work—give your stomach an opportunity to regain its lost power,
the muscles will be strengthened, the plasma invigorated, and you will be a new man.

It costs nothing to prove the effectiveness of this cure. Send for a free sample package today. F. A. Stuart Co., 78

indulged in a plunge in the surf. The weather was clear, though the air was a trifle cooler than usual here on New Year's day.

Weeks Beats McNamara.
PUEBLO (Colo.) Jan. 1.—Freddie Weeks of Butte, Mont., tonight knocked out Willie McNamara of Chicago at the Grand Opera-house, Cripple Creek, in the third round. Weeks was in superb condition and was the superior in every branch of the game.

RIVERSIDE ELKS WIN.
RIVERSIDE, Jan. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With a score of 1 to 6, the Riverside Elks baseball team defeated
the nine of the Santa Barbara Elks
in an exhibition game at Chemsawa Park this afternoon. The match was played before the largest crowd ever gathered for a ball game in this city.

Human Hand for a Gift.
A human hand was the Christmas present that came Monday to Charles Casson, bartender in a saloon at No.
1618 Payne avenue, Cleveland. Sunday night a man the porter did not recognize left it on the bar in a cigar box neatly wrapped in pink paper.

"A little Christmas present for Charlie," he said.
Casson found it when he opened the place Monday.

"Pretty nice to be remembered this way, eh?" he said, as he broke the string.
"Cigars, I suppose," said a baker who happened in.

"No for cigars—what? No, it's something else," said Casson, as he came to a wrapping of pink and white tissue paper inside. The baker bent close while Casson removed these wrappings with care.

Then out fell the hand.
"Wow!" yelled the baker, and bolted
through the door. He left his basket of bread and untouched drink on the bar and has not been back since.

With shaking hand, Casson poured himself a good big drink. Then he had another. Thus fortified he gingerly approached the greasy mess. He turned it over with an ice pick where it lay. There was no mistake. A human hand it was—the right hand of a man and still blood-stained.

Casson buried the hand in the back yard.
"Don't talk about it," he said to all inquiries Monday night. "I want to forget it."

Senator Clark's Peculiarity.
In a Washington note the Chicago Record-Herald says that a few nights
ago when miserable weather prevailed,
sloppy under foot and a storm of halfpelted pelting down, a man in evening
dress boarded the Connecticut-avenue car. He had come from one of the downtown hotels, dexterously avoiding the cabbies marshaled at the entrance. As he sat in the crowded and bedraggled car, drops of dampness
hanging to the brim of his silk tie, wedged in between a white man and a negro carrying an obtrusive bundle
and grooped for his nickel fare, half
the passengers snickered and made halfaudible remarks about some people who could afford cabs. Half-way up Connecticut avenue the passenger who excited so much comment alighted and trudged through the storm to his place of abode. It was Senator William A. Clark of Montana, one of the richest men in the country. Few, if any, in Washington ever saw this
multi-millionaire in a cab, but every-
day he may be seen waiting on a corner or chasing his way through the
vehicles of this thoroughfare to board
the economical trolley.

High-Class Undermuslins

Reduced One-Third

This January Sale of Undermuslins was planned months ago, great quantities ordered when the factories were willing to forfeit profits in order to keep under headway during their slack season. We also secured a fine sample line of the world-famous "Home-made" brand of Undergarments, made entirely on lock-stitch machines, in sunny, sanitary factories, and the only make of muslin underwear so closely imitating French hand embroidery that it is difficult to detect the difference. To get such garments at a third less than true worth is extraordinary luck indeed.

Corset Covers, Drawers, Skirts, Gowns and Chinese are offered at such prices—and large varieties may be found in all lines.

WILLIAM H. B. BUILDING

There are a vital part of the scheme which has been authorized by the government of the United States for the purpose of training the Filipinos in the government by allowing them to choose their own officers for local government. This is being done although the elections are being conducted in an orderly manner and without disturbance of the public peace. It is true that there is a very small contingent, and a large number of the municipal elections were protested and many annulled by the provincial boards. There have been no cases of bribery, and new elections are ordered.

Fifteen of the provincial elections were also protested on various grounds such as purchase of votes, coercion or intimidation of voters, allowing non-qualified persons to vote, etc., and the Governor-General ordered new elections in several provinces in which the people had not been fairly expressed. The free choice of these officials has necessarily been expected. It is to be hoped that the success of the bill further important duty of electing their representative to a national assembly. This is a duty which is probably within the competence depending upon the then existing conditions of peace and order. Guy has been elected to the assembly, and there has been error it has not been in the direction of restriction, but in the direction of extension. A larger measure of self-government than a people absolutely untrained for the exercise of such functions is not a government were prepared for. The results have been on the whole encouraging and the training this has come to the people has been valuable.

In some provinces, though little or no interest is taken in general political affairs, the people are taking part in local elections. In the city of Manila agitation of political factions, in view

The popular assembly, has been marked by increased intensity and bitterness and strenuous influences brought to bear for the election of a new assembly by their friends upon the electors.

INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS.

The reports of the various governments taken as a whole, indicate that the crops are in a more prosperous condition, except as to tobacco, sugar, and hemp, plants of the latter having been damaged by the drought to the extent of about $4,000,000 in value of the crop. The reduction in the production of tobacco is due largely to the loss of a considerable amount in the United States being closed by the absolutely prohibitory duties imposed by the Dingley tariff and to the consequent low price of the article.

In the matter of exports the loss was made up by the increase in the production and exportation of cocoa. The value of the exports of the preceding year, by some $4,000,000.

Large portion of which consisted in the reduced importations of rice, which has been the staple food of the islands. The Philippines are raising their own rice and extending their agriculture. Cattle and horses, which have been starved by death of cattle and draft animals from rinderpest, leucist and anthrax, etc., are being raised in favor of the islands was about $5,000,000. Enormous numbers of new plants from America, machinery in most use in fiber plant, and in most use in rubber plant, have been set out, and there has been a great increase in the area planted to rice.

Another good sign of returning prosperity is the increased purchases of American agricultural machinery, which not merely denotes improvement in purchasing power on the part of the islands, but also furnishes the material for constantly enlarged production.

FINANCIAL CONDITIONS.

The financial conditions of the islands reported to be very much improved for the last several years, the close of last fiscal year there remained an excess of receipts over expenditures of $1,000,000 and a half per cent, due in part to the income tax.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue and part to the greater economy in expenditures, and it is confidently expected that during the next year there will be a sufficient amount available over and above the ordinary expenses of government to devote two or three per cent to much needed internal improvements, roads and bridge building, permanent public works.

BONDED INDEBTEDNESS.

In addition to the certificates of indebtedness of $1,000,000 on account of gold-standard fund the only bonded indebtedness of the insular government is $1,000,000 in per cent bonds issued for the purpose of carrying the friar lands and $3,000,000 in improvement bonds.

INTERNAL REVENUE LAW.

In 1914:

The internal revenue law has repeatedly demonstrated the wisdom of its enactment, as it is indispensable for the purpose of revenue and reducing the burden of taxation, especially very heavy on articles of small consumption and on the small industries from an annual and burdensome tax that had been levied upon them. The total collection during the year 1935-36 was four and a half million dollars, bulk of which is obtained from the alcoholic products, manufacture of cigars and cigarettes, opium by Chinese, and from liquor taxes.

Three per cent. of the total amount was collected in Manila and 27 per cent. in the provinces, and 73 per cent. of the receipts. The agitation against the law continued to persist until October, 1936, when, after considerable discussion, it was modified in any vital or the distillers and manufacturers of tobacco products adjusted to the new conditions. The

EXPENSION OF LAND TAX.

As regards the continued agricultural season, the loss of earthenware, typhoons, etc., and the condition of the insular treasury, it was deemed expedient to further extend outside of Manila the land ownership and tax category and make the tax, in view of the burden of land taxes for one year, inasmuch as the proceeds of the land tax are devoted solely to the purposes of the water supply, the authorities might not be embarrassed in not having sufficient funds to meet the expenses necessary to the maintenance of the roads, bridges, buildings, and public formations. The Commission passed an act providing for the extension of the land tax to the provinces and municipalities, and the funds to be added to the total amount of the land tax collected by them respectively.

and tax is an equitable one, small in amount and cannot amount to eight or ten per cent. In any case, but the aggregate amounts to be raised are needed for local purposes and the government has encountered many other more important obstacles in obtaining such understanding, but it is that as the work of revaluation is steadily progressing, it is hoped that this will result in a readjustment of valuations and that certain sacrement of the will obviate many of the difficulties experienced.

AGRICULTURAL BANK.

A late report of the Philippine Commission were net forth the need of capital to establish an agricultural bank to aid agriculturists in their various enterprises by loaning them at low rates of interest the purchase of draft animals

REPORT ON PHILIPPINES.

The thirty-eight provinces. These elections are a vital part of the scheme which has been authorized by the commission of the United States in its policy of training the Philippines in self-government by allowing them to choose their own officers for local administration.

These elections, although outstandingly conducted in an orderly manner and without disturbance of the peace, were attended with much difficulties, and a large number of the municipal elections were protested

and many annulled by the provincial boards, because of frauds, intimidation,

or bribery, and new elections or

re-elections were ordered.

Persons of the provincial elections

were also protested on various grounds,

such as purchase of votes, coercion and intimidation of voters, allowing non-

qualified persons to vote, use of marked

ballots, etc., and the Governor-General

ordered new elections in several provinces

in which it was ascertained that the will of the people had not been freely expressed. And it is the common belief that this has come to pass because of the influence of the American and Filipino interests in the elections, and the fact that the American interest is in the election of a legislative assembly which is to convene probably within the coming year, depending upon the results of the election of the provincial boards.

The conditions of peace and order, Governor Ide states that undoubtedly if there has been error it has not been in the granting of perhaps a larger measure of self-government

than a people absolutely untrained in the exercise of any of the functions of government were prepared for. The results have been on the whole encouraging, and the training this has come to the people has been invaluable.

In some provinces, though little or no interest is taken in general political affairs, great interest is excited by local elections. In the city of Manila

the approach of the elections for the popular assembly, has been marked

by increased intensity and bitterness and numerous instances brought to light by the several candidates and their friends upon the elections.

INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS.

The reports of the various governors, as a whole, indicate that the island is in a more prosperous condition, except as to tobacco, sugar, and cane, plants of the latter having been damaged by destructive typhoons to the extent of about $2,000,000 in value of the crop. The reduction in the production of tobacco is due largely to the destruction of the plantations of Manila hemp, maguey (a most important plant), and coconuts have been set on fire, and there has been an increase in the area planted to cane.

The good sign of returning prosperity is the increased purchases of agricultural implements and machinery, which not merely denotes prosperity, but also denotes prosperity in purchasing power on the part of the island people. It is stated that the Philippine people have been and are greatly interested in the production of commodities beyond the needs of the island, and that, owing to the exorbitant rates of interest which have been levied by the money lenders,

no single step could be taken that would give greater satisfaction

to the working men of the people.

The fact remains undisputed that Alfred Benjamin & Co. constantly set the pace in men's fashions.

The same new style-features adopted by New York's exclusive custom tailors are found in Alfred Benjamin suits.

Not for another twelve months will these advanced ideas appear in ordinary ready-to-wear suits.

You cannot justify the selection of a commonplace suit when the same price entitles you to Alfred Benjamin tailoring.

In quality of workmanship and cloth, the difference in favor of Benjamin suits is equally apparent.

Full Dress Evening Clothes

The very climax of richness and excellence; models whose dignity and grace is impressive and becoming. No local tailor approaches these stunning evening clothes in style or appearance.

Money Making Talks

By A. Ofis Boye

A man came into our office the other day and told the Boss he wanted to make money. He said he had $1000 to invest in something that would earn money for him from the start, and continue to earn money just as long as he kept on a wantin' money. He said he'd been investin' in mining stocks and a dozen other different things and he hadn't never got any dividends. All he'd got so far was promises. Said he couldn't live on promises no better than anybody else. He said promises was all right when you had some other kind of an income to keep you alive, but as a steady and unvariegated diet they were no good—at least not for him. I couldn't live on them either, and I came pretty near saying so, too, but I didn't.

The Boss didn't say nothin' to the man until he got through, then he spoke up and says: "What would you say, Jones?"—that was the man's name—I couldn't think of it before owing to its being so uncommon—"If we'd put that $1000 of yours where it would earn you $268.10, or a little over 26 per cent. the first year, and $587.20 more than 53 per cent. equal to $48.93 a month the second, and every year thereafter, with it having the chance to increase in value to $2000, or maybe $4000, in two or three years."

Old Jones looked at the Boss kind of funny when he got through a-talking, as if to say—"well, you old liar. You know I can't make it earn that much money." He didn't say that, though, cause if he had the Boss 'ud just about throwed him out of the office. He's consen-tious, my Boss is, and never tells anybody nothing that ain't true. He says that if he can't sell investments without lying they ain't never goin' to be sold, and he means it, too.

Well, to make a short story longer, the deal ended by Jones taking $1000 worth of that investment—10 shares—which was, by the way, stock of the La Herradura Banana Plantation Company, and a-goin' out the door clickin' his heels together and hardly a-touchin' 'em on the ground, he was so tickled with his investment.

Jones didn't know it before, but that's the only kind of investments we handle. We—that's me and the boss, the stenographer an' a few more of us. That was easy for us. When you put a peso—that's Mexican for "plunk"—to work through our office it earns the biggest profits it ever had a chance to earn before.

That's the secret of success of all the big fellows, my Boss says. They don't work for their dollars, they make their dollars work for them. I've got a little working for me, and I'm soon goin' to have more. It gives a fellow a mighty comfortable feeling to know that he has something to depend on besides himself. Just try it once by buy-ing some of this Banana stock and see.

I've got $100 of my money that the Boss invested for me in the Banana Company by takin' $2.50 a week out of my salary. I'm gettin' $4.89 a month out of it—more than $1.00 a week—and I can soon sell it for $300 or more. Have you got any of it? Well, you'd better get some, 'cause it's mighty near all gone. I overheard my Boss tell one of the salesmen yesterday that we had only twenty-five shares left, and ten shares of them was spoken for. He also said that he wished he could get more, because he liked to sell people investments that would earn as much money as the Banana Company. He said maybe he could get some more—50 shares or so—but it was doubtful, so you had better get busy and take a look into our office before we're sold out. We handle lots of investments that earn money, but this Banana Company earns more than anything else we've ever had. That's what the Boss says, and he sure knows. When you get a share of this Banana Stock you are really the sure enough owner of a one-half acre of land planted in big bananas, and you get the profit from the bananas when they are sold. That's how your money earns so much money. If you've got two shares of stock you get the profits from two half acres of bananas, or one whole acre, and so on—a one-half acre of bananas for every share of stock.

Sometimes you get more than 26 per cent. the first year and 53 per cent. the second and other years, because the men back of the Banana Company, the Boss says, are very conservative—whatever that is. Anyway, they figure all of the profits on everything just as low as possible so as to be sure that you won't get any less than they promise to pay you, but you usually get more, then you are surprised. My Boss says that during the first year they raised bananas down there on the La Herradura property the company paid the stockholders 8 per cent. more the first year than they agreed to do. The demand for bananas is getting heavier all the time, which makes the price go up, and I wouldn't be surprised but what we would all be getting bigger and bigger profits still every year, the longer we hold our stock, and of course, the more money it earns, the more it will be worth to us when we want to sell out.

If you haven't got time to come into the office better put your name on the coupon below, and address, and send it to us. We'll send one of our salesmen out to see you and he'll tell you everything you want to know about the proposition. If you haven't got the cash to pay for some of it you can buy it like I got mine: $10 down and $10 a month until it's paid for and your money earns money after you have made five payments, because the Boss puts up half of his own money to help make out the price of the stock, and your money begins making money before you've got your stock all paid for. How's that for a money-making lay-out? Don't know of anybody that can beat it, do you? Well, I guess not.

The Boss says nobody is too poor to make money, and anybody who wants to make an investment in the money-making enterprise he handles, and will come and tell him how much money he has, he can fix it so that he can get in on anything that we are handling.

Don't forget now about the Banana Stock, if you want some of it, 'cause it's good. You know how good bananas are? Well, our investments are just like them. The more you get the more you want. You can't eat the investments, but when you get enough of them they'll earn you enough money to get you anything you want to eat. Of course, I ain't figurin' on having more than one or two more of these Banana Shares myself, but I got to figurin' the other day what my income—say, doesn't that word sound good—would be if I had two shares. It looked so big I couldn't help estimating the profits from three shares, then four and five. When I got to ten I found that there were most too many figures for me and I had to quit. Oh, well, if you want more than ten shares the Boss will figure the profits for you right quick. He can tell you off-hand, without a pencil and paper or nothing. Here's the way I figured the profits on each number of shares by the month and the year, and I'm pretty sure they're right, because I went over them three times:

Shares.	Price.	Earn Yearly.	Monthly
1	$100	$ 58.72	$ 4.89
2	200	117.45	9.78
3	300	176.16	14.68
4	400	234.88	19.57
5	500	293.60	24.46
10	1000	587.20	48.93

Don't forget that I told you, now, you'd have to hurry, and look this up if you want in on it, because we can't hold on to this stock forever. It's too good to keep, and it's selling fast. So long.

Blue Banner Sale of Men's and Boys' Clothing

Starting 1907 Off With a Whirl, Today

Men Will Know More Surely Than Ever in 1907 How Strongly to Their Advantage it is to Buy Clothing at The Broadway Department Store

The sale starts this morning. It should be a record breaker for a great combination of values for men and boys, strong, different, unusual. We have put forth every effort to make it one of the most striking events in the history of Broadway merchandising for men and boys, the same as we have striven to have the best and most stylish clothing that could be bought to sell at lowest prices regularly.

It's a Sale to Celebrate the Most Successful Clothing Year in Our History

A year that, by its increase over the year before, shows what a big factor the Broadway clothing store has become with men and boys in Los Angeles.

It's our way to say "Thank you," and to give you a promise of greater things to come in 1907.

We've made it a combination event for men and boys, for the boys are the men of the future, and we want them to begin buying at The Broadway now.

Every Suit in the Store Marked Down

Suits Over $20.00 to $27.50 Values Will Be $20.00. Suits Over $15.00 and Up to $20.00 Will Be $15.00. All Boys' Suits Priced Over $5.00 Will Be $5.00

A fine, big, complete clothing stock, all kinds and styles and varieties of clothing to choose from. It is not a meager display, but let the values talk for themselves. If you want a new suit, don't let anything keep you away from the second floor today.

$10.00 Will Buy Any Man's Suit

That was Over $10.00 and Up to $15.00

All the new lengths and patterns to choose from, single and double breasted styles, suits to satisfy every man's need.

The unusualness of Broadway regular values is well known, the fact that we're going to sell $15.00 suits at $10.00 will make an important stir, and many more men will get in touch with the bigness of this Broadway Department Store and the advantages of buying here. $10 is the first price for men in this Blue Banner Sale.

15 for Men's Suits that were Priced up to $20

Among them are many suits that are very exceptional values at $20.00, every one to go at $15.00 today, second floor.

$20.00 For Men's Suits

THAT WERE PRICED UP TO $27.50

This is the most important item in the whole sale for many men. Every suit that was over $20.00 and up to $27.50 marked $20.00. Blue serge, black Thibet, unfinished worsteds, fancy mixtures, single and double breasted styles.

Just take the full prices they were marked and compare them with exclusive stores' values. You'll more fully understand what the saving will mean to you to be able to buy them at $20.00—second floor—today.

Men's 69c Shirts 48c

For the January clearance sale. Golf shirts, a fine assortment of patterns, light or dark colors, made of fine percales, chevrons, madras and oxfords. Some with separate cuffs, others with cuffs attached. Aisle 3, today, 45c.

SHIRTS AT 35c—Golf shirts in a good assortment of neat, clean patterns; all sizes, slightly damaged. That's the reason they are 35c instead of 50c and 75c. Aisle 8 today.

WORK SHIRTS 35c

Including a big lot of samples, shirts of blue chambray and blue and white chambray and black drill, and black and white drill. All strongly made. Some of them slightly damaged and soiled, or they would be 50c values. Aisle 8 today, 35c.

25c SUSPENDERS 15c

Men's good strong elastic suspenders in a fine assortment of colors. Made with cross back and leather ends, light weight like web or heavy weight for working men. Aisle 8 today, 15c.

12c HANDKERCHIEFS 8 1-3c

Good pocket size, soft finish, hemstitched, plain white lawn or colored Japonette handkerchiefs, $ 1-3c. Aisle 7.

10c SOCKS AT 6c

Men's fast black seamless cotton socks, smooth finish. All sizes. 10c values at 6c. Aisle 8, today.

$5.00 For Boys' Suits

Every One That Was Over $5 Included

Norfolk or plain double breasted styles with plain or bloomer pants. Then there are suits for the little fellow in Buster Brown, sailor and Russian blouse effect. Splendid values at regular prices. Down they go to $5.00 to make this Blue Banner Sale a record breaker, and a great friend winning time for The Broadway.

That Were Up to $5.00

Suits for boys of all ages, 7 1/2 to 16 years. They are good suits, good values to sell at full prices. Lines we make a specialty of in this Blue Banner Sale today, second floor, $3.00.

$2.00 For Boys' Suits

THAT WERE UP TO $3.00

Mighty good values at full prices.

Indeed, many stores would call them sale values at the Broadway regular prices. Then they would call them especially special at $2.00 today, 2nd floor.

It's a sale no mother ought to miss. Buy the little fellow his whole year's outfit, you'll save money by doing so. Don't wait; remember sale, starts this morning on the second floor. Bring the little fellow with you and fit him out.

BACK TO BABES GOES MRS. YOUNG.

SAYS HUSBAND'S JEALOUS ACTS DROVE HER AWAY.

Woman Who Disappeared Last Friday, Leaving Three Small Children Behind, Is Found Working as Nursemaid in Physician's Family—Reluctantly Returns Home.

Mrs. Beattie Young, who mysteriously disappeared from her home, No. 1160 West Twenty-fourth street, last Friday, has returned to her husband, "Jack" Young. The theories of suicide by drowning in Westlake Park and of flight to an alleged Oakland lover, were proved groundless yesterday morning when Mrs. E. F. Caswell called on the Police Station and reported that the missing woman was in her house, No. 1223 Rich street.

Mrs. Young had found employment there as nursemaid, through Mrs. B. S. Hawley's employment agency, on the day of her disappearance, giving her name as Mrs. Beattie Graham.

Dr. and Mrs. Caswell reached Los Angeles and took up their residence on Rich street only a few days ago, and were busy fitting up their winter home. Neither looked at the newspapers Sunday or Monday. The supposed Mrs. Graham was sent out Monday night to secure a paper, but could not get one. Yesterday morning a paper was secured, and on reading the report that Westlake Park had been dragged in search of the body of the missing Mrs. Beattie Young, Mrs. Caswell jumped to the conclusion that her maid was the woman on being shown the report, and asked if she was the person referred to. Mrs. Young broke down and told her story.

According to this story, Mrs. Young was approached in Oakland by a wealthy man who urged her to leave her husband and make her home with him. She indignantly refused, and told her husband. In that husband's man was aroused a suspicion that his pretty young wife might go to the man, or some other. With the idea of preventing this, he made a custom, said Mrs. Young, of locking her in their Los Angeles residence when he went to his work. If, on returning, he found his wife dressed neatly, his suspicions flared up, and he would ask whom she was expecting, or what man had been there. Once, when she cleared a dense growth of honeysuckle from the bedroom window, he aroused his wrath.

"Some one on the street will see you standing at the window," he cried, according to her statement.

The system of petty persecution became intolerable, said Mrs. Young, and she finally resolved to leave the home where she had been made miserable. In her anxiety to free herself from such treatment, she even concluded to abandon the three children she had borne in the past three and one-half years.

When, yesterday, Mrs. Caswell urged Mrs. Young to return to her home for the sake of the children, the unhappy wife screamed in protest, declaring that she never would go back.

Dr. and Mrs. Caswell then went to the Police Station, and there they met Young. They persuaded him to go to their home and try to talk with his wife. At first she resolutely refused to see him, but finally relented. He implored her humbly to go back with him to the babies, declaring himself repentant for his actions in the past, and promising to do whatever she might ask if she would only come back to him. Mrs. Young prevailed upon at last, for the sake of the children, and somewhat dubiously consented. She and her husband went away together.

"I was sorry to lose an excellent maid," said Mrs. Caswell. "But I thought it would be best for her to go back. She was a perfect little lady, and very kind and attentive to my baby. I hope her husband has learned a lesson."

NEW CAR STOP TESTS TEMPER.

TRAVELING PUBLIC IS MIXED
BY NEAR-SIDE LAW.

Wait on the "Far" Crossings at Street Intersections. Only to See Trolleys Whiz by—Knew That the Change Was Coming, but Failed to Apply Their Knowledge.

Temper was tried and various qualities of human nature revealed yesterday, the initial day of the test of near-side stops by the street cars. The plan was recommended by the Anti-Wreck Commission, a body appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants and Manufacturers Association and the Municipal League, after a series of car crashes with terrible consequences.

Whether stopping on the near side of streets will serve to avoid accidents is a question yet to be determined, but the change instituted yesterday morning had immediate results of one sort. It compelled the immediate readjustment of habit on the part of many thousands of human beings. Disappointment, humiliation, rage, disgust were immediate consequences.

Everybody knew all about what was to be done, of course; they had read it in the papers and talked of it for days; they had seen the notices in the cars. Nevertheless, hundreds of them forgot to make a practical application of their knowledge. They had to be reminded, once at least, of the fact, by being compelled to watch the car they wanted glide gently past them where they stood, after stopping on the other side of the street.

Many persons enjoyed the show. One young man with an eager grin and an anxious eye, divided his attention between the people who had forgotten the change and watching for his own car. A middle-aged woman of ponderous dignity walked confidently out from the curb, just around the corner, and a ludicrous expression of blank amazement spread over her ordinarily severe countenance as the car swept past. Dignified even in humiliation, she stalked solemnly after the car, signaling it peremptorily with a signal wave of a black-gloved hand. Nothing doing.

The young man watching the show fairly hugged himself with delight, and forgot to watch for his own car. It stopped just behind him, on the near side of the street, where he properly waited, and went on without him. He saw it going and ran after it, so excited that he quite forgot that it was not to stop on the other side of the street. Having become the best part of the show, he lost all enjoyment of it. Fish in a glass tank, will not swim past the point where a glass partition has been. It takes them many days to realize that the transparent barrier is no longer there. Human beings are supposed to adapt themselves more readily, yet it probably will be many days before a large portion of the traveling public adjusts itself to the new wrinkle.

Car patrons who suffer inconvenience and ruffled temper, will expect a great reduction of accidents to justify the change.

NEW YEAR'S GIFT.

Prisoners at City Jail Get Presents from Former Associates, Who Wish Them Joy.

Charles Brown, who the police say has been arrested seventeen times, has become a philanthropist. The man, who admits having been sentenced to more jail terms than any other man in Los Angeles, brought joy to his former fellow prisoners yesterday.

"Where is the Chief?" asked Brown. The desk sergeant showed his amazement. He knows the man well and smiled as he thought the former prisoner was trying to break into jail again. "There's Billy Kelly," said the sergeant, "tell him your troubles."

The visitor dropped a heavy bundle on the desk and said, "That's for the boys inside. I've been there myself, and I know what it is to suffer for a cure. Give my compliments and wish them a 'Happy New Year' and a speedy release."

When the package was unrolled it was found to contain several boxes of good cigars and a large quantity of chewing tobacco. It was a rare New Year's present.

The idea of giving the jail occupants a present suggested itself to Brown while he was working at his trade of a waiter in a small restaurant. He spent his week's salary for the gift and seemed rarely jubilant over the fact, he believed he has imparted to them the same joy he himself has experienced.

CHARGES OF VAGRANCY, disposing of bogus jewelry, and various other charges have been booked against Brown. He says he has learned a lesson and will never get into jail again.

BRYAN HERE THIS MONTH.

A telegram was received by Nicholas Cole, Jr., yesterday from William Jennings Bryan stating that he and Mrs. Bryan will arrive in Los Angeles on January 27. They will be the guests of Mr. Cole at his beautiful home, 4012 Pasadena avenue. The couple, which is making arrangements to spend the winter in Los Angeles, will give a banquet and a reception. The committee has not yet organized, but it is expected to do so at once.

ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN.

NUMBER WEDDED AND DIVORCED UNPRECEDENTED.

Marriage Licenses, However, Show Great Growth of City and County in Prosperity—Justices of Peace as Well as Ministers Kept Busy. Statistics Are Interesting.

The wonderful growth in prosperity of the city and county of Los Angeles clearly indicated by that certain number of good times, the marriage of the year at the Courthouse. During the year of 1906 all previous records were broken, not only in the absolute number of licenses issued, but in proportion to population.

During the year 4714 licenses were issued, or compared with 2941 issued in 1905. In the records of the marriage of 1906, the population was 1,000,000, and the city had hardly cast off the wedding clothes of infancy. In 1905, the number rose to 1142, but in 1906, the population was 1,000,000, and the city had hardly cast off the wedding clothes of infancy. In 1905, the number rose to 1142, but in 1906, the population was 1,000,000, and the city had hardly cast off the wedding clothes of infancy. in 1892 when only

both in prosperity and numbers, some light, at least, cast upon the social status of the city and county by the record of the number of divorces

granted in the nine departments of the Superior Court last year.

The increase in the number of divorces granted has been very marked.

Prior to 1890 the divorces were not particularly numerous in proportion to the population, but in 1902 they rose to

288. In the following year, 1903, there were 473 granted, and 7 annulments,

and in 1904 there was an increase to 657 divorces and 10 annulments. In 1906

the increase was slight, only 567 divorces having been granted, but last year there was a jump to 719, with 13

annulments.

One thing is very notable in connection with the divorce record, and that is that a very considerable number of the newcomers to Los Angeles, in proportion to the total number, come to escape from unpleasant marital circumstances. Those who do come here for divorce, can secure it by living

following the precedent set by the Episcopal Church, in refusing to marry

divorced persons save when one cause, has had some effect in increasing the number of marriages performed

by justices of the peace. In 1906 Justice Pierce married 274 couples, and in 1904, 281. During 1905 Justice Young made 273 couples happy, and in 1906,

381.

If these figures represented all of the

marriages by civil process

throughout the county, the proportion to the total number of marriages

would not be unduly large, but in many cases the country justices are called on to tie the knot, and these cases increase the civil marriages very considerably.

up in line, making graceful salute to the Queen.

Then they rode away up the track. At a signal from one of the track officials, a young man, built like a college football guard, and mounted on a gray polo pony, dug in his spurs and came tearing down the track as fast as his horse could gallop. Just before he got to the tent peg, the long lance lowered; one tense moment—a swerve and a jerk and H. W. Marlowe rode away down the track, the tent peg triumphantly stuck to his lance point.

Another horse and rider cut out from the crowd and N. H. Dutton just ticked the tent peg with his lance.

At the second try Mr. Dutton broke his lance short at the point, but was not thrown from the horse.

Then W. Marke got the tent peg, too.

Churchill Harvey-Elder came down the track on a mouse of a polo pony whose feet fairly twinkled as he ran. The first time he missed. The next time the little polo pony came down the track, running low like a hound, his hoofs pattering a tattoo—quite as anxious to peg as his rider.

Elder leaned over in the saddle, made a quick jerk and rode away with the cheers of the crowd in his ears—and the peg on his lance. He ran one of the best scores.

J. Munns neatly pegged at the first try and kept winning. He won the contest.

A little demon of a white horse, which went mad with excitement, reared and plunged, and very bad luck were against J. S. Past. At the first try he caught up the peg, but it flung off his lance point high in the air. The second time he cut the peg squarely in two, with the force of his arm instead of picking it up.

Roy Hostetter was one of the most brilliant riders of the day. Conrad M. Tullock also rode well.

After the first single tries, they began running two horses at once; they did it to save time, but it added to the thrills. The thing was so close a contest that they finally sent three horses down the track at once and at the close, just before the end, they drove in four pegs in the track at once.

The sight that happened then was scheme as a dog shakes off water drops. Down the track came four running horses, low to the ground, stretching their stride, four men in loose white shirts and puttee leggings crouching low over the saddles, and four long lances leveled menacingly out to the

about as full of thrills as could safely be.

Far up the track, you see the tangled mass of colored lance ribbon and dancing horses. It was a constantly shifting sparkle of color as the horses darted in and out of the little rodeo.

Then four would disengage themselves from the rest as though they had shaken off the tangled color front. A quick jerking shock and some of the lances went down the track bare and unhonored, and some bore tent pegs.

The "melee" which followed the tent pegging, was nothing else than sword contests on horse back; they were funny and were meant to be.

The tent peggers came back down the track hidden behind big fencing masks and armed with long basket-bladed single-sticks. At a signal from the trumpeters on the Queen's stand, they fell to and attempted to knock off the plumed crest that adorned each fighter's fencing mask.

Between the heats of the chariot races, the crowd studied the programme and pondered deeply on the meaning of "Aseilus race," which mystery had a prominent place on the programme. When the trumpeter called it out the people who craned their necks saw two chariot teams of little mouse-colored ponies turn into the stretch and patter humbly down the track.

A yell of laughter rose. At the sound, a German-looking person in a black chit and hood looked up in mild disapproval from his chariot. The charioteer was Eugene F. Kohler in disguise. The other driver was Kingsley N. Stevens, who had a killingly funny make-up as a red-headed Hibernian Roman.

Stevens won the race by diplomacy and ingenuity. Kohler's steeds may have been built for great fleetness, but he did not think of providing himself with a big sheet of metal, such as they make stage thunder with, and flapping it over the backs of his fiery teams, scaring the burros into wild flight. Stevens won the $100 prize by that foxy idea.

His burros bucked their tails between their legs and ran for their lives.

Another novelty was the two-mile relay race. The four entries bore the colors of the hotels—Dr. A. J. Ellis wore red and green for the Green; Dr. A. R. Savage, red and white for Hotel Raymond; Dr. L. C. Deming, yellow and black for the Maryland; and Fred R. Emery, white and green for the Bixby.

Dr. Deming got away first in a wild burst on a big roan horse and led the field for the first lap. When he came to the grand stand where each rider was to change to another horse, however, his nag resented the imputation. He dug his fore feet in the track and slid for ten feet through the dirt. By the time the doctor regained his equilibrium, the others had come up, jumped on their new horses and were away again.

Dr. Deming never regained the lost time. Dr. Ellis had a way of flinging himself off one horse and onto another that won him the race; Mr. Emery was second.

AND NOW THE CHARIOTS. You could tell when a chariot race was coming; a tense hush fell over the crowd.

The buglers stood in line before the Queen and an army call rippled out over the crowd. Far out across the field a bobbing fillet and a patch of color slipped out from the stables and a chariot drawn by four slender little horses, built like greyhounds, came dancing and fighting around the track. Frightened by the thing that bounded and bumped along at their heels, they fought for their heads.

In the first race, Mac Wiggins, who drove the red chariot for the Hotel Maryland, won easily from E. J. Levensgood of Santa Ana.

In the second, P. B. Michel won from Neil McKirk of Hemet. These races were impatiently brushed aside.

What the crowd waited, breathless, to see was the race between Mac Wiggins and Michel—two seasoned and daring horsemen, with magnificent teams of thoroughbreds who were to wipe out a rivalry which has grown up through many tournaments.

Michel won the wild enthusiasm of the crowd before this great last race occurred.

THRILLING RESCUE. When Levensgood came out on the track to race McKirk for the consolation prize, Levensgood's country bred horses suddenly became unmanageable. An automobile hitched to the end of their reins couldn't have stopped them.

Their blood-shot eyes and their dilated and reddened nostrils could be plainly seen. Their foam-flecked jaws dripped blood as they dashed round and round the track. A policeman got in the way for a second, and his unconscious form was carried off the track. It was feared that they would leap the barrier and get into the crowd. People were growing white and no one knew what to do. The charioteer was growing weaker and his straining arms had no more effect on the horses than a wisp of straw.

Suddenly a man in airy Roman costume, with his white toga streaming out straight behind and his sandaled feet hitting the dirt in great strides rushed down the track. It was Michel, the chariot racer. He fairly tossed a Pasadena policeman out of his saddle and threw his legs over a big spirited horse that he picked out at random. At first touch of his hand on the heavy Spanish bit, the horse knew a master and the two whirled down the track after the runaway.

The crowd saw him leap far out of the saddle and reach for the bit of the runaway horse nearest him; saw the beast swerve in his flight. Then they all disappeared around the bend in the track. When they appeared again, Michel was leading the runaways; they were quivering and starting and shying, but he was the master.

The runaway cost Levensgood the race, however. His horses had spent their strength and he lost to McKirk.

MICHEL AND MACWIGGINS. The great event of the day took place when the sun had sunk low and the chill of night had fallen.

Around the bend of the track came Michel first, followed quarter of a mile back by MacWiggins. Michel's team were small bays and MacWiggins's horses looked mouse-colored in their close-clipped hides. So magnificently were both teams under control that they came dancing down the track like frisky chorus girls.

MacWiggins won the advantage of the inside track.

Michel thundered by in a cloud of dust, his horses running like insane demons. MacWiggins followed at a pace no less furious. At the first turn Michel whipped across the front of MacWiggins's team that thundered twenty feet behind him and took the inside track.

MacWiggins never caught up again. There is no doubt in the world that this chariot race was the most splendid ever seen. The old Roman horses stretch, Michel's horses and the finish was made in a mad abandon that landed Michel team half a length in the lead. Michel won $750 and was consoled by $500.

A juvenile winner.

Curvetting and prancing, both teams went up the back stretch and turned. MacWiggins came into position first in front of the Queen's stand and lay back in his chariot, pulling with all his strength and with one foot on the top of the chariot, trying to hold back his excited horses for the start.

Michel swept his team around and gently swished the whip over their backs. Feeling the bits fall loose in their mouths, the team gave one bound and came tearing along with the chariot roaring at their heels. The speed was terrific.

Just as they came even with him, MacWiggins gave his teams, too, their heads; but the second that it took to get into their full stride cost him the race. Michel had the best start.

of folly. Pink and white were colors, blended in every way to a perfect whole. Every rider, attendant, every girl who sat in float, was masked in black. The riders were equestriennes, each tended by a jester in a cap and long curled slippers, and all the phantoms of the buffoon, even to twisty strip of white down the legs of the pink fleshings.

Outriders, attendants, horses, float, and the rear guard—scores moving figures, all in white and pink all masked they formed a pageant all alone, that would be called a to de force if gotten up as the measure of some festival. Yet yesterday they passed only as one of the chief jewels in the chain that Pasadena winds through her streets to dazzle her visitors.

But one beauty overleaps another—only those immediately present which have some special reaction on the mind of the individual observer.

Dedicated to the flaming red of the poinsettia, the Academy of the Holy Name passed in brilliance down the parade, with its attendants in mortars and flowing red robes. Another school followed, and another. McKinley school was there with its circular float, drawn by twenty boys in white. A miniature Roman chariot represented Grand school.

There was one float that was out of the ordinary in its color scheme. It was brown and yellow, drawn by eight splendid horses. No flowers were used—the shiny brown bark adorned from the palm gave one touch of color, the paperplant added its scope of vivid colors. An orient religious procession was the idea. Laid in green jackets bounded in and of behind, led in scarlet-yellow-coated boys beat on tom-toms, everywhere there was movement and bright color.

In a palanquin was carried a demure little maid, dressed a la Japan. A one watched up the street, in the line of floats and four-in-hands, the swaying bearers of the palanquin in their bright costumes, the moving attendants, all made a flashing spot that in variably arrested the attention.

FLORA'S WONDROUS GOWN. How can one pick out all the floral beauties that graced Pasadena's holiday? They make a distinct impression, which is put away in the mind. A word will recall it, a picture in black and white will leap into color as memory paints again the blush of the rose, the fiery brilliance of the poinsettia, the green of the holly and fern. SCENES IN THE CHARIOT RACES.

BALL FOLLOWS DAY'S REVELRY.

BRILLIANT CLOSING OF THE DAY OF THE ROSE QUEEN.

Large Party Enjoys Dancing at Hotel Green, Amid Scenes of Splendor—Bounteous Ladies in Stunning Costumes, Gay Flags and Twinkling Lights of Red and Green.

From basement to roof garden both east and west buildings of Hotel Green were last evening ablaze with electricity and gay with flags and tournament colors, which ornamented facades, draped balconies, festooned corridors and fluttered from minaret and turret.

Twinkling lights of red and green outlined the upper stories of the great hostelry and the span of its connecting bridge.

During the early hours every approach was thronged with vehicles bringing elegantly-gowned women and men in evening dress to participate in the Tournament ball which was given in the ballroom of the hotel.

The corridors, through which the guests passed were lined with potted palms and flowering clematis. The Moorish parlor and Turkish rooms, reserved for uniform, were simply but appropriately decorated with decorated only with smilax at their capitals and Roman wreaths of laurel and holly were hung upon open spaces of the walls. In the ballroom, the orchestra was stationed, the semi-circle being well filled in with tall tropical plants, bamboo, dwarf pine and flowering shrubs. The throne upon which the Queen was seated was softly illuminated with tiny electric lamps of many hues.

For the ball a programme showing an order of twenty dances was provided and these were prettily embellished with a sketch of a chariot and four with decorations of roses. Shortly before 8 o'clock the Queen and her court assembled in the music room of the east building and added to the train were all those who in the morning occupied those entries which were winners in the pageant. A procession was formed headed by the herald of the day, and at the sound of the bugle this bewildering pageant of youth and beauty crossed the connecting bridge and coming down the west staircase entered the ballroom. The herald was followed by buglers and then came Tom Karl and a full chorus of sixty waiting and the Queen of the Tournament. Following were all those who had been awarded prizes in the pageant. The Queen was her court costume of the morning and her maids were becomingly attired in their dainty gowns of yellow gauze with court veils of yellow and purple. The ceremonies were concluded with a song by Miss Grace Vetter, pink silk mull, trimmed with Valenciennes lace.

Miss Mathew Slavin, black velvet, and dancing began. Dr. F. C. Mattison acted as director of the ball and the floor managers were: Messrs. F. S. Allen, Willis Johnson, Henry Newby, Robert Miller, Dr. Z. T. Malaby, Dr. Arthur Savage, Roy Manger, E. E. Webster, Earl C. Lindsey, Goldsmith Brown, E. F. Woodbury, Frank Rider, Kingsley Stevens, Harp Montgomery, S. V. Martin, Dr. A. T. Newcomb.

The handsome costumes of many of the women present added greatly to the beauty of the scene, and there were several smart dinner parties preceding the ball. Among these was that of Mrs. Huntington Harvey, for which covers were laid for fourteen, and one given by Mrs. Avery McCarthy of Los Angeles, who wore an exquisite corollette gown of pale blue satin chiffon, with silver-embroidered trimmings.

Miss Marion McGilvray, who was lovely in light blue chiffon velvet, with pearl ornaments.

Mrs. Robert Pittman wore a stunning dress of silver gray panne velvet. Mrs. Tullington Harvey was gowned in black-embroidered net.

Mrs. Lloyd Macy wore a fetching gown of pale blue satin chiffon, made princess fashion. Mrs. Mortimer Henderson was charmingly gowned in pale panne velvet.

Mrs. E. M. Berlin of Buffalo wore a becoming gown of white net over white tulle.

Mrs. Mervyn, pink liberty satin trimmed with cream lace.

Mrs. W. E. Arthur, pink silk mull with insertion of Valenciennes.

Miss Marie Honk, cream lace over white silk.

Mrs. Walter Raymond, white satin chiffon, trimmed with medallions and Maltese lace.

Mrs. Earle of San Francisco was stunning in a Paris gown of black velvet, trimmed with rare lace.

Mrs. A. T. Newcomb wore a fetching gown of white liberty satin, with point lace garniture.

Mrs. W. S. Fletcher was handsomely gowned in white net over tulle, with trimmings of liberty satin.

Mrs. L. S. Sautelle wore lavender tulle, with bands of velvet of a deeper shade.

Mrs. T. Whitaker, light pink silk with cream lace trimmings.

Miss W. Dickinson of Los Angeles, pink silk, with china blue lace.

Mrs. James Campbell, sea blue silk, style, and diamond ornaments.

Mrs. L. H. Turner, white net, with accessories of pink velvet.

Miss Grace Vetter, pink silk mull, trimmed with Valenciennes lace.

Mrs. Mathew Slavin, black velvet.

TRAINS LOADED TO THE LIMIT.

THIRTY THOUSAND PASSENGERS CARRIED IN SAFETY.

One Car Is Run Every Minute for Three Hours, the Hordes of Sightseers Poured into Pasadena Yesterday Morning from Los Angeles. Thirty thousand persons, it is estimated, were carried.

In a stream of jostling, struggling humanity that knew no cessation for three hours, the hordes of sightseers poured into Pasadena yesterday morning from Los Angeles. Thirty thousand persons, it is estimated, were carried.

The electric railway carried the great bulk of the traffic, far more than two-thirds of it, while the Santa Fe, Salt Lake and the Southern Pacific steam lines were well patronized, some of their trains carrying as many as twelve cars fully loaded.

The electric railway operated three direct lines into Pasadena—the old route by way of the Central Farm, the original Santa Fe line, and the "newer" Short Line that enters Pasadena by way of Lake Avenue. The first heavily-laden cars were sent out at 7 o'clock in the morning, and from that time forth there was no let-up until 10 o'clock, when the last departure could be made with any certainty of reaching a point of vanishing along the line of the great fair.

As fast as the traffic warranted, additional cars were put into service. Every car was loaded to the roof. As the record maintained, and so accurately did the wheels run under the carefully-laid rails, that not a single car of any kind occurred, although for a time during the busiest hour it appeared that the big system was under strain.

The greatest craze was between 8 and 10 o'clock. It was then that the people from the beaches and from the near-by suburbs poured into Los Angeles to join with its residents in the race for the great fair.

That went out in this hour were literally covered by masses of humanity hanging to the roofs and to the sides of the open portions, in imminent danger of disaster.

The steam cars were not sent out so heavily, although it required the movement of many special trains to handle the traffic that went their way.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

SAYS THAT JAPS ARE INDECENT.

RED-HOT COMPLAINT OF THEIR SANTA ANA CAMP.

Action of the Board of City Trustees of the Santa Ana County is invoked against Oriental. Who are Alleged to Be Guilty of Obscene Practices at That Place.

SANTA ANA, Jan. 1.—A phase of the Japanese question, as it concerns Santa Ana, was discussed in no uncertain terms last night before the City Trustees. As a result, the board instructed City Attorney W. P. Heathman to write to the Pacific Electric people, requesting that a Jap camp on East Third street be moved.

The order came as a result of the complaint of two prominent West Third street residents, J. R. Fuller and A. Hacklander. These men declared that the Japanese laborers in the camp were guilty of indecent exposure, that they wandered about their camp often without a stitch of clothing upon them, and that children in the neighborhood had been shocked by the appearance of these men within a few yards of them.

Hacklander declared that he had been almost unable to go to his home last Thursday evening, when a Jap seized a small boy and was dragging him down the street. When Fuller intervened, Hacklander said that on another occasion a Jap made an attempt to capture his 7-year-old son, but was stopped by the lad, who seized a small rifle, pointed it at the brown intruder and said: "You leave me alone, or I'll shoot your eye out." An argument the Jap found convincing.

Trustee A. C. Black suggested that the City Attorney notify the Pacific Electric that the camp had become a nuisance, and unless conditions are improved, the Japs would be put under martial law.

"The way to cure this evil is to get the Japs out of the way," said Trustee T. H. H. and on his motion the attorney was instructed to request the removal of the oriental from the camp. The Japs are on Pacific Electric property near the freight depot.

REQUEST FOR LA JOLLA.

San Diego Park Commissioners Will Ask for Biological Station at That Place.

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 1.—The Park Commissioners will ask the Legislature for authority to convey to the Regents of the University of California the La Jolla Park for the use of the university as a biological station. The University-General has advised that with proper legislation the transfer can be legally made. This action is important to La Jolla, inasmuch as the present location of the biological station is contingent on the acquisition of the same.

News has been received of the death, in Salinas, of Mrs. Mary C. Baugh. She was visiting her daughter, Mrs. F. H. Baugh, who came here from San Antonio, Tex., thirty-five years ago.

The San Diego and Arizona Railway Company has filed a petition with the City Council asking that the City Engineer be directed to locate and mark the company's right of way through the city.

The 10th Infantry for Company B, Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., and the local division of the Naval Reserve, were dedicated last evening. The opening address was by Mayor Schott.

Other addresses were made by Judge M. L. Ward, Attorney Eugene Davey, Capt. Ed Fletcher of Company A, and Lieut. D. M. Stewart of the Naval Reserve. A ball was a prominent feature of the celebration. The arena is at the corner of Thirteenth and G streets and is to be occupied jointly by the soldiers and the Naval Reserve.

RIVERSIDE'S CHARTER PASSED. RIVERSIDE, Jan. 1.—The new municipal charter was passed by the City Trustees at a special meeting, and its publication was ordered in the two daily newspapers here. The election will be held at an early date. The trustees who have been elected have done much hard work in its preparation, and believe that it fully meets future as well as present needs of the city. The document contains initiative, referendum and recall provisions.

The F.O.B. Club held a reunion and ball at the Victoria Club house Monday evening. The interior was gaily decorated in the Christmas colors, and the music by the orchestra was a special feature. Old members of the club who are at home from the colleges for the holidays were special guests.

Young people of the Christian Endeavor societies of the city joined in a which night party Monday at the Christian church. A short devotion meeting was held, with Rev. J. M. Ross as the speaker.

The Epworth League of the First Methodist church assembled in the auditorium Monday evening and watched the red year drama. The hours of the evening were passed in social way, and a New Year's talk was given by the pastor, Rev. E. J. Inwood.

CORONA DITCHED AT CORONA. CORONA, Jan. 1.—Traffic on the Santa Fe between this town and Riverside was blocked for a number of hours Sunday by the ditching of a freight car and an oil tank car at May station. The accident was caused by the derailing of the front truck of a car.

The Misses Platt have had as guests their country Mr. and Mrs. Walter Preston and daughter of Portland, Or., and Mrs. Fred Preston of Los Angeles.

The District Sunday-school has elected Mrs. Eva Beebe as superintendent, Arvy Giamon, assistant superintendent, Glad Sanford, secretary and librarian, and Roy Cross, treasurer.

IMPORTANT ROAD PLANNED. LOMPOC, Jan. 1.—In the matter of the petition of H. C. Dimmock and others for the construction of a road through the San Julian ranch, the report of the viewers was approved. It is estimated that the road will cost in excess of $120,000. As this is too large an amount to be appropriated out of the road fund, the board has ordered that 50 per cent. of the cost be defrayed out of the general fund and 50 per cent. out of the road fund of the fourth district.

The sum of $2000 is appropriated with which to pay damages to certain property owners. 50 per cent. to come out of the general fund and the balance out of the funds of the fourth district.

The majority of the property owners have agreed to the report of the viewers, and have given the necessary right of way. It will be the most important piece of road work done in this county for many years.

For nearly twenty years efforts have been made to obtain the right of way for the construction of this road. It is a straight road between the county seat and two important cities in the northern part of the county.

BOY ESCAPES FROM OFFICER.

THEN LEADS HERMIT'S LIFE IN THE HILLS.

Charged With Trying to Sell Stolen Copper Wire—On Way to Station Given Policeman Surprise by Disappearance—After Four Lonely Weeks Is Caught Again.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES. SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thomas, a young boy, was captured by the police tonight after having lived in the hills near this city for four weeks.

The boy was arrested by Captain of Police W. H. W. who was on his way to the station suddenly darted into an old building, Wiley followed, but caught his feet in a wire and was nearly thrown.

Meanwhile the boy escaped. The youngster took to the hills and lived there, coming to the city by night and obtaining food from various sources. He will probably receive little more than a reprimand.

LOW-POLYMAN. Two of Santa Barbara's popular young people, Thomas W. Low and Miss Josephine Bowman, were married this afternoon at the home of Miss Bowman's mother on East Victoria street. The relatives of both young people, numbering many, were present, together with a few of the more prominent citizens of the city.

Mrs. Bowman has resided here for several years and is accounted one of the city's prettiest young women. Mr. Low is a young business man and clerk. The honeymoon will be spent in Southern California cities.

FOR TARGET PRACTICE. Two ships of the Pacific squadron, the gunboat Princeton and the collier Saturn, sailed yesterday for Magdalena Bay. The other ships of the fleet, including the flagship Charleston, will sail on Thursday, and sixteen days are to be spent at Magdalena in target practice. The whole squadron is to spend several weeks in San Diego harbor after the practice and will sail north in time to be in San Francisco on March 1, to participate in the fleet maneuvers.

The Japanese fleet, which is expected in San Francisco Bay about that time, will be the main attraction of the maneuvers. Santa Barbara is interested in the maneuvers, and has been asked to furnish during the maneuvers a number of experimental vessels and that the original company will receive any new arrivals in the field. The field is about eight miles from Phoenix and several hundred feet higher than this city, which makes the firing of the product to two lines of railroad.

FACTORY STILL CLOSED. It has been decided not to operate the Glendale beet-sugar factory during the coming season. The controlling company will in finance the factory, and unable to give satisfactory guarantee to the farmers, many of whom, it said, are now over the winter, it is also doubtful if a sufficient supply of water could be secured from the Glendale water company, states that there is no doubt that the factory will make its real start in the summer of 1907.

ARIZONA NOTES. In the District Court a new trial has been granted Don C. Babbitt, Democratic candidate for County Treasurer, against whom was decided an appeal made by the Republican nominee, R. E. Miner. So Babbitt will take office tomorrow, holding till the matter is finally decided.

Through the corporation laws of Arizona are almost lax in their liberality, there are a few things that corporations are supposed to do in order to continue in business here. An instance in point is a suit just brought by Atty-Gen. E. S. Clark against A. A. Waterman & Co., makers of fountain pens, who have failed to observe the terms of the Territorial statute, having made no appointment of a Territorial agent upon whom legal process might be served. It is added, therefore, that the Waterman incorporation be dissolved.

SANTA FE PENSIONS. President Ripley Gives the Employees of the Great Railroad System Official Notice.

Official notice has been sent to every employe of the Atchafalaya, Tule and Santa Fe Railroad of the plan by the company to grant a pension to its "loyal and worthy" employes, and in the circular letter sent out by President E. P. Ripley from his headquarters at Chicago every man is called upon to identify his interests with the great system of which he is a representative. The letter says:

"It is with great satisfaction that I issue this announcement concerning the pensions to be granted to loyal and worthy employes. I believe it to be more liberal in its terms than any pension system now in force and I sincerely hope that it will show appreciation of the loyalty and service of those whose future is thus made safer should in return render the best service of which they are capable. I hope that it will make me four-fifths of the amount of pension larger—that will depend on the amount of the company, which every employe should strive to promote."

Now that it has been demonstrated that the sandstone rocks northeast of Phoenix carry paraffine oil, it is expected that a half-dozen oil wells, at least, will be bored in the near future. The formation is distinctly of the oil-bearing variety and quarts of oil can be skimmed from the surface of every tubful of water pumped from the well nearly 200 feet. It is understood that that has been sunk to the depth of available water in the vicinity of the product to two lines of railroad.

CAN BREATHE AGAIN. Sullivan Has His Throat Cut to Save His Life—Tracheotomy Helps Him.

Threatened with death in an ugly form at the dying of the year, Edmund Sullivan's life was saved in the County Hospital by resort to an operation which has become almost obsolete in surgical practice. The patient, who on New Year's eve, was strangled to death, and black in the face before the emergency operation of tracheotomy could be performed, yesterday spent a fairly happy New Year's Day.

Sullivan, who is of English birth and 44 years old, came to Los Angeles about eighteen months ago. Until recently he had never had any throat trouble, and his health was remarkably good. With a cold that he had given, pertussis, the forming of an abscess behind the tonsils, was developed. Monday afternoon his breathing was almost stopped. Dr. Joseph R. Tanner opened the windpipe and inserted a trachea tube.

Tracheotomy was a common operation in severe cases of diphtheria, which the membranes prevented breathing, but since the discovery of anti-toxin it has not been resorted to in diphtheria cases, and very rarely in other diseases. When necessary it is an emergency operation, when a matter of seconds means life or death.

BIG FRESHET THREATENING

IF WARM WAVE Melts SNOW IN MOUNTAINS.

Cold Causes Subiding of Flood in Gila and Salt Rivers, but Heavy Snowfall in Mazatzals and Pinalis. If Suddenly Melted, Promises Damage.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.) PHOENIX (ARIZ.) Dec. 31.—This flood in the Gila and Salt rivers is already subsiding, owing to cold weather in the mountains. The latter part of the storm, in the higher altitudes was marked by the fall of more than 24 inches of rain, and the Mazatzals, Pinalis and other Central Arizona mountains are covered with a deep layer of snow. There appears to be every prospect that the storm will continue. If higher temperature comes with it, there will be the greatest freshet in the two rivers since that of 1892. The Gila has fallen with unexampled rapidity, and this afternoon it was made possible to complete repairs on the bridge of the Southern Pacific, permitting the transfer of passengers and mail.

The works at the Roosevelt dam foundation were again overwhelmed by the rush of water from the Roosevelt road up the Salt River Canon was deep under water and for a time passenger boats were unable to proceed. It is now probable that the contractors will await the settling of the water.

STORM AT CLIFTON. It is believed that little damage was done at Clifton by the storm, though the camp's future will depend much upon the protection it secures against the rising of the San Francisco River. It is being rebuilt upon the very spot where the life and property have been repeatedly lost before this, its people seemingly undaunted by damage done them to the amount of at least $500,000.

Mrs. and Miss Chaffee Lose Priceless Mementos; Only Tracks of Thief.

THE home of Lieut.-Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, U.S.A. (retired) at No. 2216 South Figueroa street was entered by a porch climber about 4:15 o'clock last night. About $1500 worth of jewelry was stolen. Those robbed do not feel the loss so keenly because of the value of the property, but because nearly every piece taken is an heirloom.

Gen. Chaffee, Mrs. Chaffee, Miss H. V. Chaffee and Mrs. Tilden of New York were at dinner when the burglary occurred. Late in the afternoon the party had returned from Pasadena. They had been engaged for a time in getting ready for dinner and the servants had been busy in preparing the meal.

Mrs. Chaffee went to her room and removed a few articles of jewelry. Mrs. Tilden and Miss Chaffee also went to their rooms. Miss Chaffee was the last to go down stairs before the robbery, and turned off all the electric lights. That was about 5 o'clock, and soon afterwards the party went into the dining-room.

During the course of the dinner Tilden, the cook, left kitchen and went to the second floor to place some purchases in her room. As she passed through the door of the rear stairway into the large upper hall she noticed that the rooms were brilliantly lighted.

A screen prevented the servant from seeing the burglar, who was passing in the door at Mrs. Chaffee's room. As the servant moved into the hallway beyond the screen she saw a shadow of a slowly retreating form on the floor. Dropping her bundles, the girl gave a little cry and ran down the back stairs. On the way she recovered slightly.

The thought that the shadow might have been that of one of the household came to the servant, and she spoke to Anna, another servant, of the incident. Upon receiving the assurance that all the household were seated at the table, the cook ran into the dining-room and told Gen. Chaffee that the rooms upstairs were lighted and that she saw a shadow of a man.

Followed by other members of the family, Gen. Chaffee dashed to the second floor, ready to engage the intruder. One glance assured him that the robber was gone and the rooms had been rifled. Passing from room to room they saw that the contents of the drawers of bureaus and dressing tables were scattered about the floor. Jewel cases, torn open, lay about the rooms.

BOLD OPERATIONS.

Gen. Chaffee called up the police and then made an investigation. Two light ladders splined together—forming one long one—was first found leaning against the south side of the front porch. Up this ladder the burglar had climbed. Along the porch, by the cityway to the porch the thief had climbed to the window of Miss Chaffee's room.

That the screen the robber found robbing window was unfastened. After the robbery the police found fresh marks in the ground indicating the course of a wagon. The footprints lead to the wagon tracks and then disappear. The presence of a wagon lead the police to believe that the porch-climber came and departed in a light wagon. Following the wheel tracks along the alley another discovery was made.

CAME IN A WAGON.

The wagon entered the alley from Adams street and proceeded to a point about twenty feet south of the Chaffee barn. There a horse stood for some time and was then turned about

NEW YEAR CROWD AT WHITE HOUSE.

Many Stand in Line for Hours to Shake President's Hand—Splendid Floral Decorations—Sun Shines Brightly—Day in Other Cities.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—Each year the White House doors swing open to all the nations January 1, and a heartier welcome was never extended to visitors than greeted the thousands who called today to pay their respects to the Chief Executive. New Year's other banished rank and class distinction. The President greeted ambassador and laborer with the same firm handshake.

While the Marine Band played patriotic airs, the great throng moved slowly through the Executive Mansion, and in the greeting of the President, men and women of all ages and conditions found renewed devotion to the republican and democratic ideal.

IN LINE FOR HOURS.
The diplomatic corps, the judiciary, the army, the navy and civilian officials in the various departments were received in turn before the thousands of citizens who had been standing in line for hours could meet the President.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Vice-President and members of the Cabinet and their wives, accompanied the President's family to the White House. Here they assembled at about 10:40 o'clock, remaining until a few minutes to the hour, when, escorted by Capt. R. McCoy, United States Cavalry, one of the aides of the President, the entire party descended to the Blue Room. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt left the lead.

As the latter made their appearance at the head of the stairs, a fanfare of trumpets by musicians of the Marine Band, stationed in the vestibule, announced their coming. The march to the Blue Room was made by way of the state dining-room, and the Red Room, through which all the guests, except those of the diplomatic corps, passed before being presented, the latter assembling in the room immediately on their arrival by way of the southern entrance to the White House.

IN THE BLUE ROOM.
By means of a velvet cord twisted with gold, the Blue Room had been roped off so as to form a clear and unobstructed passageway for the callers. The President took a position near the door at the head of the receiving line. On his right was Mrs. Roosevelt, to her right Mrs. Fairbanks, and so on down the line, the last of the Cabinet taking their position in the order of precedence.

Behind them stood the President and the members of the Cabinet. To the opposite of the receiving line were the President's aides, with the exception of Col. Charles S. Brown and Capt. McCoy, who made the introductions. The former included Lieutenant-Commander Albert H. Key, U.S.N.; Lieut. Arthur E. Harding, U.S.N.; Lieut. Chauncey Shackford, U.S.N.; Capt. Fitzhugh Lee, United States Cavalry; Lieut. Douglas MacArthur, U.S.A.; Lieut. C. R. Train, U.S.N.; Lieut. Philip H. Sheridan, United States Cavalry, and Ensign Sommes Reed, U.S.N.

THE INTRODUCTIONS.
With the exception of the members of the diplomatic corps, all the introductions to the President were made by Col. Brown, and to Mrs. Roosevelt by Capt. McCoy. As each caller passed the President he gave a cordial shake of the hand. The last of the ladies of the Cabinet each carried a handsome bouquet of roses.

Baron Meyer von Hohenhausen, Ambassador from Italy, the dean of the corps, headed the ambassadors. The ambassadors and members of their staffs were followed by the ministers and the members of their official households.

CHINESE MINISTER MOURNING.
Because of the death of the Minister's mother, requiring him to go into mourning for a period of one hundred days, Sir Chen Tung Liang Cheng, the Chinese Minister, was not present. Most of the members of the cabinet, however, were in attendance in their Oriental dress.

Sir Mortimer Durand, who has just vacated the post of Ambassador from Great Britain at Washington, was a ways a conspicuous figure in the Presidential social functions. King Edward was represented today by Eme Howard, chargé d'affaires.

SUPREME COURT APPEARS.
Following the diplomatic Corps came the representatives of the judicial branch of the government at Washington, headed by the Justices of the Supreme Court. Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller came first, each of the associate Justices following. For the first time in his new capacity as an associate Justice, William H. McHugh was present at a social function at the White House.

Following the Supreme Court were the Justices of the Court of Appeals, the Justices of the District of Columbia, the judges of the District of Claims and former members of the Cabinet, ambassadors and ministers of the United States.

MANY LEGISLATORS ABSENT.
Many of the members of the House and Senate had gone home for the holidays. The congressional party was small.

THE IMPRESSIVE SPECTACLE.
The officials of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps and of the District National Guard in special full dress, presented an imposing spectacle. Lieut. Gen. John C. Bates, retired, headed the army line, and Brigadier General Devereux, with his secretary, Lieut. Crawford, the navy. The general and staff of the District of Columbia National Guard followed the regular army and navy guests.

A civilian contingent, made up of the members of the various independent bureaus and commands and assistant secretaries in the executive departments, was followed by the members of the army and navy societies in Washington.

THE PLAIN PEOPLE.
Last of all came the general public, thousands of whom had been in line for several hours waiting their turn, and for the time being the doors of the White House were open to all. There were old and young, white and colored, men and women.

THE ACCESSORIES.
The United States Marine Band was under command of Lieut. W. H. Santelman. The plan of floral decorations was simple, the desire being to give as much room as possible for the free movement for the large number of guests.

In the great vestibule and corridor adjoining it, the florists' work was shown to splendid advantage. Ornamental potted foliage was tastefully grouped in various places.

The two immense jardinières in the form of sarcophagi forming always a conspicuous object of interest in the vestibule, were today filled with the busting out of statues that range also.

CASTRO'S ILLNESS FORBIDS.
NO FESTIVAL AT CARACAS.
(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

CARACAS, Jan. 1.—The usual New Year's diplomatic reception was not held today, owing to the illness of President Castro, who is still unable to attend to official or other business. The condition of the President is generally believed to be very serious. The latest bulletin states that his doctors expect him to recover within a month, but, according to the best private advice, if his recovery is possible, it will take much longer than this.

The country is generally quiet just now, but a revolutionary outbreak is undoubtedly will follow President Castro's death, and in order to promote tranquility for as long as possible, military and police forces are being increased.

ARMY OFFICERS ENTHUSIASTIC.
(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

MADRID, Jan. 1.—There was a demonstration in one of the principal cafés of Madrid last night, during the festivities in connection with the advent of the new year. This café is frequently visited by army officers, and a group of officers insisted that the orchestra play the "Marsellaise," shouting "long live the republic." Another group of officers, however, insisted that the Spanish National Anthem be played. A clash seemed inevitable, when the proprietor averted trouble by dismissing the musicians.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—Following an immemorial custom, the reception to the President today was followed by receptions by the Vice-President, the members of the Cabinet, the army and navy and well-known private citizens of Washington.

Next to the President's reception in the Blue Room, the most notable of the day was the reception of the diplomatic Corps at breakfast, a custom which is inaugurated by the first Secretary of State.

The members of the Cabinet and their wives were extended New Year's greetings by hundreds, not only of the diplomatic set in official Washington, but others as well.

Among the present were Miss Helen H. Cannon, daughter of the Speaker of the House, who maintained a custom which she has kept up ever since coming to the national capital.

SAYS SHOOT ALL MASHERS.

Chief of Police Issues Order to Stop Them.

He Misses One But Hopes Men Are Better Shots.

Youth Wrecks Train to See Cars Fall into River.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

ALTON (Ill.) Jan. 1.—Orders were

issued to the police today by Chief of Police Maxwell to shoot all mashers

who annoy women on the streets and attempt to resist arrest. The order

followed an unsuccessful attempt of

Chief Maxwell to hit a masher at

whom he fired. The chief then issued

a general shooting order, and said he hoped his men would be better mark-

men.

The insulting of women on the streets by loafers and mashers must be stopped," he said.

YOUTH ADMITS GUILT.

WANTED TO SEE CARS TOPPLE.

SALT LAKE, Jan. 1.—Roy Swartz,

the young telegraph operator who was

arrested yesterday following the

wrecking of an Oregon Short Line

train at Peterson, Utah, which caused

the death of Engineer McPherson and

serious injuries to other trainmen, has confessed that he alone caused the

trainwreck. The youth, who is the son

of the station agent at Peterson, ad-

mits that he was prompted to the

train plunge into the river below. Five

farmers who were arrested yesterday

have been released, though they ad-

with the block signals at Peterson, and

steal coal from flat cars. Some of these

farmers will be rearrested.

LOST SAVINGS IN ZION.

THEN SHOT ELDER ROPP.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The mystery which surrounded the shooting of Elder Peter

Ropp, one of John Alexander Dowie's

closest followers and friends at Zion

City, was cleared up today, when the

dolph Zollinger, fired the shot while in

a frenzy over losing his life savings,

which were invested in Zion enter-

prises.

Zollinger, still raving, was closely

guarded in Shiloh House today. He is said to be almost a maniac, as the result of his losses.

"I'm a pauper, Dowie got me to

sink my savings in his business and

he has ruined me," shouted Zollinger,

after he was overpowered.

Zollinger was night fireman at Shil-oh House.

TURNED OVER IN ATLANTIC.

STEAMER HURONIAN'S FATE IS PROBABLY SETTLED.

Bottle Containing Second Message from the Long-Missing Vessel

Picked up on the North Coast of Ireland—Says She Was Sinking Fast.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

LONDON, Jan. 1.—There has been washed on the beach at Castle Rock, in the north of Ireland, a bottle containing a message from several men who had been on the ship Huronian, which disappeared in the spring of 1902, to the effect that she was sinking fast. The message, however, gives no location.

This is the second time the Huronian has been heard from since she sailed from Glasgow February 11, 1902, for St. Johns, N. F.

The Huronian belonged to the Allan line. She was first reported overdue early in March, 1902, and when nothing had been heard from her by April 1, all hope for her was given up. In spite of this, however, the British Admiralty, at the request of the owners, ordered the cruiser Thames to search for the missing steamer, and the latter part of April the cruiser Bel-

low was ordered to the North Atlantic to help the Thames in this work.

Do you know that today the great Los Angeles is steadily southwest? Now this is true lies in the fact that now extends to the sea. The reason is only a question of time until a seaport which will rival any on the coast. VERMONT AVENUE VILLA TR located on Vermont ave., offers an element something out of the ordinary. Located as it is, at 522, 526 and 528 presents an opportunity which an home-seller cannot pass up. The lots are faced east, north and are good frontages; modern improvements included.

A 6 1/2x12 east front on Vermont Avenue, worth 1-4 more today. Only ts of the various governors.

It was also announced that the country is in a more prosperous condition than before, as tobacco, sugar, and other products, the latter having been the main exports, are now being sold at a profitable price. Exports of about $4,000,000 in value were reported for the first six months of the year. The reduction in the price of tobacco is due largely to the untimely market, that of the other products being closed by the abominable duties imposed by the tariff and to the consequent loss realized for the leaf. The matter of exports the loss of which by the means in the hands of the government, is the main cause of the exportation of tobacco. Imports were reduced below $1,000,000 per year by some $4,000,000.

Business Suits

MASTERPIECES IN TAILOR-CRAFT

The fact remains undisputed that Alfred Benjamin & Co. constantly set the pace in men's fashions.

The same new style-features adopted by New York's exclusive custom tailors are found in Alfred Benjamin suits.

Not for another twelve months will these advanced ideas appear in ordinary ready-to-wear suits.

Full Dress Evening Clothes

The very climax of richness and excellence; models whose dignity and grace is impressive and becoming. No local tailor approaches these stunning evening clothes in style or appearance.

Money Making Talks

By A. Ofis Boye

A man came into our office the other day and told the Boss he wanted to make money. He said he had $1000 to invest in something that would earn money for him from the start, and continue to earn money just as long as he kept on a "wantin' money." He said he'd been investin' in mining stocks and a dozen other different things and he hadn't never got any dividends. All he'd got so far was promise. Said he couldn't live on promises no better than anybody else. He said promises was all right when you had some other kind of an income to keep you afloat, but as a steady and unvariegated diet they were no good—at least not for him. I couldn't live on them either, and I came pretty near saying so, too, but I didn't.

The Boss didn't say nothin' to the man until he got through, then he spoke up and says: "What would you say, Jones?"—that was the man's name—I couldn't think of it before owing to its being so uncommon—"If we'd put that $1000 of yours where it would earn you $268.10, of a little over 26 per cent. the first year, and $587.20 more than 58 per cent., equal to $488.93 a month the second, and every year thereafter, with it having the chance to increase in value to $2000, or maybe $5000, in two or three years."

Old Jones looked at the Boss kind of funny when he got through a-talking, as if to say—"well, you old liar. You know I can't make it earn that much money." He didn't say that, though, cause if he had the Boss 'ud just about throwed him out of the office. He's comestious, my Boss is, and never tells anybody nothing that ain't true. He says that if he can't sell investments without lying they ain't never goin' to be sold, and he means it, too.

Well, to make a short story longer, the deal ended by Jones taking $1000 worth of that investment—10 shares—which was, by the way, stock of the La Herradura Bonanza Plantation Company, and a-goin' out the door clickin' his heels together and hardly a-touchin' 'em on the ground, he was so tickled with his investment.

Jones didn't know it before, but that's the only kind of investments we handle. We—that's me and the boss, the stenographer and a few more of us. That was easy for us. When you put a peso—that's Mexican for "plunk"—to work through our office it earns the biggest profits it ever had a chance to earn before.

That's the secret of success of all the big fellows, my Boss says. They don't work for their dollars, they make their dollars work for them. I've got a little working for me, and I'm soon goin' to have more. It gives a fellow a mighty comfortable feeling to know that he has something to depend on besides himself. Just try it once by buying some of this Bonanza stock and see.

I've got $100 of my money that the Boss invested for me in the Bonanza Company by takin' $2.50 a week out of my salary. I'm gettin' $4.89 a month out of it—more than $1.00 a week—and I can soon sell it for $300 or more. Have you got any of it? Well, you'd better get some, 'cause it's mighty near all gone. I overheard my Boss tell one of the salesmen yesterday that we had only twenty-five shares left, and ten shares of them was spoken for. He also said that he wished he could get more, because he liked to sell people investments that would earn as much money as the Bonanza Company. He said maybe he could get some more—50 shares or so—but it was doubtful, so you had better get busy and take a look into our office before we're sold out. We handle lots of investments that earn money, but this Bonanza Company earns more than anything else we've ever had. That's what the Boss says, and he's sure knows. When you get a share of this Bonanza stock you are really the sure enough owner of a one-half acre of land planted in big bananas, and you get the profit from the bananas when they are sold. That's how your money earns so much money. If you've got two shares of stock you get the profits from two half acres of bananas, or one whole acre, and so on—a one-half acre of bananas for every share of stock.

Sometimes you get more than 26 per cent. the first year and 58 per cent. the second and other years, because the men back of the Bonanza Company, the Boss says, are very conservative—whatever that is. Anyway, they figure all of the profits on everything just as low as possible so as to be sure that you won't get any less than they promise to pay you, but you usually get more, then you are supplied. My Boss says that during the first year they raised bananas down there on the La Herradura property the company paid the stockholders $3 per cent. more the first year than they agreed to do. The demand for bananas is getting heavier all the time, which makes the price go up, and I wouldn't be surprised but what we would all be getting bigger and bigger profits still every year, the longer we hold our stock, and of course, the more money it earns, the more it will be worth to us when we want to sell out.

If you haven't got time to come into the office better put your name on the coupon below, and address, and send it to us. We'll send one of our salesmen out to see you and he'll tell you everything you want to know about the proposition. If you haven't got the cash to pay for some of it you can buy it like I got mine: $10 down and $10 a month until it's paid for and your money earns money after you have made five payments, because the Boss puts up half of his own money to help make out the price of the stock, and your money begins making money before you've got your stock all paid for. How's that for a money-making lay-out? Don't know of anybody that can beat it, do you? Well, I guess not.

The Boss says nobody is too poor to make money, and anybody who wants to make an investment in the money-making enterprise he handles, and will come and tell him how much money he has, he can fix it so that he can get in on anything that we are handling.

Don't forget now about the Bonanza Stock. If you want some of it, 'cause it's good. You know how good Bonanzas are? Well, our investments are just like them. The more you get the more you want. You can't eat the investments, but when you get enough of them they'll earn you enough money to get you anything you want to eat. Of course, I ain't figuring on having more than one or two more of these Bonanza Shares myself, but I got to figuring the other day what my income—say, doesn't that word sound good—would be if I had two shares. It looked so big I couldn't help estimating the profits from three shares, then four and five. When I got to ten I found that there were more than ten shares for me and I had to quit. Oh, well, if you want more than ten shares the Boss will figure the profits for you right quick. He can tell you off-hand, without a pencil and paper or nothing. Here's the way I figured the profits on each number of shares by the month and the year, and I'm pretty sure they're right, because I went over them three times:

Shares.	Price.	Earn Yearly.	Monthly.
1	$100	$58.72	$4.89
2	200	117.45	9.78
3	300	176.18	14.68
4	400	234.88	19.57
5	500	293.58	24.46
10	1000	587.20	48.93

Don't forget that I told you, now, you'd have to hurry, and look this up if you want in on it, because we can't hold on to this stock forever. It's too good to keep, and it's selling fast. So long.

He says he has learned a lesson and will never get into jail again.

HERE THIS MONTH. Bryan was received by Nathan J. yesterday from William Bryan stating that he and Mrs. Bryan will arrive in Los Angeles on the 12th. They will be the guests of the city and the company is making arrangements for a banquet and a reception. The man has not yet organized, but he does so at once.

both in prosperity and numbers, some light, at least, is cast upon the social status of the city and county by the record of the number of divorces granted in the nine departments of the Superior Court last year. The increase in the number of divorces granted has been very marked. Prior to 1906 the divorces were not particularly numerous in proportion to the population, but in 1902 they rose to 386. In the following year, 1903, there were 473 granted, and 7 annulments, and in 1904 there was an increase to 527 divorces and 10 annulments. In 1905 the increase was slight, only 567 divorces having been granted, but last year there was a jump to 719, with 13 annulments.

One thing is very notable in connection with the divorce record, and that is that a very inconsiderable number of the newcomers to Los Angeles, in proportion to the total number, come to escape from unpleasant marital circumstances. Those who do come here for divorce, can secure it by living here one year, and giving the court no opportunity to think that they intend to subsequently live elsewhere. This class, though small, when compared with the total yearly influx, raises the number of divorces. If it were possible to deduct such cases the percentage of divorces to marriages in this country would compare most favorably with other parts of the country. As a rule, the annulments of marriages are applications from husbands or wives who have committed bigamy either deliberately or through culpable carelessness. And the number of persons who appear to have the most lax ideas in this regard is surprising. Last year, in addition to the 719 interdictory decrees of divorce granted there were 642 final decrees entered. A final decree entitles the holder to again enter the married state. In the case of an interdictory decree one year must pass before remarriage is permitted.

The stand of some of the churches, following the precedent set by the Episcopate in refusing to marry divorced persons save for the one cause, has had some effect in increasing the number of marriages performed by justices of the peace. In 1905 Justice Pierce married 274 couples, and in 1906, 231. During 1905 Justice Young made 273 couples happy, and in 1906, 331.

If these figures represented all of the marriages by civil process throughout the county, the proportion to the total number of marriages would not be unduly large, but in many cases the country justices are called on to tie the knot, and these cases increase the civil marriages very considerably.

FAITHFUL WIFE ABUSED.
Would Bail "Hubby" Out of Jail, But Ungrateful Man Betrays Her For Her Pains.

The old story of a faithful wife and a brutish husband was repeated yesterday, when Mrs. A. C. Cook, a pretty little blue-eyed woman, came to the Central Police Station to seek the release of her husband. The man is a periodical drunk and he has not recovered from his last carousal. When the little woman appeared before the bars of the outside corridor Cook berated her.

"Why do you come here spending my money?" he said. "I don't want you to put up no $5 bill for me. Don't give these fellows my money. You ain't." But he got no farther with his abuse. The heavy hand of the jailer landed on Cook and he was hustled unceremoniously back into the tank, where he will be allowed to sober up. The money which the woman had deposited for her husband's release was returned to her and with tears in her eyes she went away.

up in line, making grateful salute to the Queen.

Then they rode away up the track. At a signal from one of the track officials, a young man, built like a college football guard, and mounted on a gray polo pony, dug in his spurs and came tearing down the track as fast as his horse could gallop. Just before he got to the tent peg, the long lance lowered; one tense moment—a swerve and a jerk and H. W. Maloney rode away down the track, the tent peg triumphantly stuck to his lance point.

Another horse and rider cut out from the crowd and N. H. Dutton just ticked the tent peg with his lance.

At the second try Mr. Dutton broke his lance short at the point, but was not thrown from the horse.

Then W. Marke got the tent peg, too.

Churchill Harvey-Elder came down the track on a mouse of a polo pony whose feet fairly twinkled as he ran. The first time he missed. The next time the little polo pony came down the track, running low like a bound, his hoofs pattering a tattoo—quite as anxious to peg as his rider.

Elder leaned over in the saddle, made a quick jerk and rode away with the cheers of the crowd in his ears—and the peg on his lance. He ran one of the best scores.

J. Munns neatly pegged at the first try and kept winning. He won the contest.

A little demon of a white horse, which went mad with excitement, reared and plunged, and very bad luck were against J. S. Past. At the first try he caught up the peg, but it swung off his lance point high in the air. The second time he cut the peg squarely in two with the force of his arm instead of picking it up.

Roy Hostetter was one of the most brilliant riders of the day. Conrad M. Tallock also rode well.

After the first single tries, they began running two horses at once; they did it to save time, but it added to the thrills.

The thing was so close a contest that they finally sent three horses down the track at once and at the close, just before the end, they drove in four pegs in the track at once.

The sight that happened then was

about as full of thrills as could safely be.

Far up the track, you see the tangled mass of colored lance ribbon and dancing horses. It was a constantly shifting sparkle of color as the horses darted in and out of the little rodeo.

Then four would disengage themselves from the rest as, though they had shaken off the tangled color-

scheme as a dog shakes off water drops.

Down the track came four running horses, low to the ground, stretching their stride, four men in loose white shirts and puttees, leggings crouching low over the saddles, and four long lances leveled menacingly out to the track.

Between the heats of the chariot races, the crowd studied the programme and pondered deeply on the meaning of "Asellus race," which mystery had a prominent place on the programme. When the trumpeter called it out the people who craned their necks saw two chariot teams of little mouse-colored foalers turn into the stretch and patter humbly down the track.

A yell of laughter rose. At the sound, a German-looking person in a black-and-white beard and wig looked up in mild disapproval from his chariot. The chariot was Eugene F. Kohler in disguise. The other driver was Kingsley N. Stevens, who had a killing funny make-up as a red-headed Hibernian Roman.

Stevens won the race by diplomacy and ingenuity. Kohler's steeds may have been built for as great fleetness, but he did not think of providing himself with a big sheet of metal, such as they make stage thunders with, and flapping it over the backs of his fiery teams, scaring the burros into wild flight. Stevens won the $100 prize by that fiery idea.

His burros struck their tails between their legs and ran for their lives.

Another novelty was the two-mile relay race. The four entries bore the colors of the hotels—Dr. A. J. Ellis wore red and green for the Green; Dr. A. R. Savage, red and white for Hotel Raymond; Dr. L. C. Deming, yellow and black for the Maryland; and Fred R. Emery, white and green for the Biaby.

Dr. Deming got away first in a wild burst on a big roan horse and led the field for the first lap. When he came to the grand stand where each rider was to change to another horse, however, his nag resented the imputation. He dug his fore feet in the track and slid for ten feet through the dirt. By the time the doctor regained his equilibrium, the others had come up, jumped on their new horses and were away again.

Dr. Deming never regained the lost time. Dr. Ellis had a way of flinging himself off one horse and onto another that won him the race; Mr. Emery was second.

AND NOW THE CHARIOTS.

You could tell when a chariot race was coming; a tense hush fell over the crowd.

The buglers stood in line before the Queen and an army call rippled out over the crowd. Far out across the field a bobbing fillet and a patch of color slipped out from the stables and a chariot drawn by four slender little horses, built like greyhounds, came dancing and fighting around the track. Frightened by the thing that bounded and bumped along at their heels, they fought for their heads.

In the first race, Mac Wiggins, who drove the red chariot for the Hotel Maryland, won easily from E. J. Levesgood of Santa Ana.

In the second, P. R. Michel won from Neil McGirr of Hemet. These races were impatiently brushed aside.

What the crowd waited, breathless, to see was the race between Mac Wiggins and Michel—two seasoned and daring horsemen, with magnificent teams of thoroughbreds who were to wipe out a rivalry which has grown up through many tournaments.

Michel won the wild enthusiasm of the crowd before this great last race occurred.

THRILLING RESCUE.

When Levesgood came out on the track to race McKirk for the consolation prize, Levesgood's country bred horses suddenly became unmanageable. An automobile hitched to the end of their reins couldn't have stopped them. Their blood-shot eyes and their dilated and reddened nostrils could be plainly seen. Their foam-licked jaws dripped blood as they dashed round and round the track. A policeman got in the way for a second, and his unconscious form was carried off the track. It was feared that they would leap the barrier and get into the crowd. People were growing white and no one knew what to do. The chariotster was growing weaker and his straining arms had no more effect on the horses than a wisp of straw.

Suddenly a man in a Roman costume, with his white toga streaming out straight behind and his sandaled feet hitting the dirt in great strides rushed down the track. It was Michel, the chariot racer. He fairly tossed a Pasadena policeman out of his saddle and threw his leg over a big spirited horse that he picked out at random. At first touch of his hand on the heavy Spanish bit, the horse knew a master and the two whirled down the track after the runaway.

The crowd saw him leap far out of the saddle and reach for the bit of the runaway horse nearest him; saw the beast swerve in his flight. Then they all disappeared around the bend in the track. When they appeared again, Michel was leading the runaways; they were quivering and starting and aying, but he was the master.

The runaway cost Levesgood the race, however. His horses had spent their strength and he lost to McKirk.

MICHEL AND MACWIGGINS.

The great event of the day took place when the sun had sunk low and the chill of night had fallen.

Around the bend of the track came Michel first, followed quarter of a mile back by MacWiggins. Michel's team were small bays and MacWiggins's horses looked mouse-colored in their close-clipped hides. So magnificently were both teams under control that they came dancing down the track like frisky chorus girls.

Currenting and prancing, both teams went up the back stretch and turned. MacWiggins came into position first in front of the Queen's stand and lay back in his chariot, pulling with all his strength and with one foot on the top of the chariot, trying to hold back his excited horses for the start.

Michel swept his team around and gently swished the whip over their backs. Feeling the bits fall loose in their mouths, the team gave one bound and came tearing along with the chariot roaring at their heels. The speed was terrific.

of Polly. Pink and white were the colors, blended in every way to form a perfect whole. Every rider, every attendant, every girl who sat in the chariot, was masked in black. The gowns were equestrian, each adorned by a jester in a cap and belt, and curled slippers, and all the paraphernalia of the buffoon, even to the strip of white down the legs of the pink festings.

Outriders, attendants, horses, the band, and the rear guard—scores of waving figures, all in white and pink, all masked, they formed a pageant all alone, that would be called a tour de force if gotten up as the sole feature of some festival. Yet yesterday they passed only as one of the many jewels in the chain that Pasadena winds through her streets to dazzle her visitors.

Then there was Altadena, a kaleidoscope of vivid colors. An oriental religious procession was the idea. Lads in green jackets bounded in and out of the crowd, and a host of young men in scarlet-yellow-coated tunics and loincloths, everywhere were movement and bright color. A palanquin was carried a demure while maid, dressed in a Japan. As we watched up the street, in the line of floats and four-in-hands, the swaying banners of the palanquin in their rich costumes, the moving attendants, all made a flashing spot that irresistibly arrested the attention.

PIERCE'S WONDERFUL GOWN.

How can one pick out all the floral beauties that graced Pasadena's holiday? They make a distinct impression which is put away in the mind. And will recall it, a picture in color and white will leap into color as memory paints again the blush of the roses, the green of the willows and the blue of the sky.

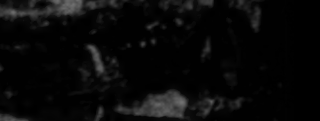

But one heavy overture was heard—only those immediately projected from the individual observer. The Academy of the Holy Arts, in the flaming red of the robes, with its attendants in mortars and flowing red robes. Another school followed, and another. A school was there with its banners, drawn by twenty boys. A miniature Roman chariot, mounted Grand school.

There was one float that was out of the ordinary in its color scheme. It was brown and yellow, drawn by a splendid horse. No flowers adorned—the shiny brown bark of the horse, the palm gave one touch of color, the paperplant added its

UP AND DOWN THE WHOLE LINE.

SMOTHERED IN VIOLETS.
Two entries were smothered in violets—a great electric lightseeing auto truck and a diminutive trap. The little trap was one of the features of the parade. There was between the shafts a little mouse-colored Shetland stallion, no bigger than a maiden's
sigh—if some one had let a cat loose
on the parade, he would have bolted.

At the end of the procession came the riders, among whom shone one equestrienne, who wore a blue habit,
and decorated her horse simply in orange marigolds. She seemed like an echo of the Queen's float at the head of the parade.

Among the youngsters at the end
was a new feature, a jolly little Santa Claus, aged probably 5 or 6, mounted on an unwilling burro, which a little Indian lad urged along.

At the very end trudged the man who has closed many a tournament
parade—the faithful sandwich man who wants everybody to vote the straight Prohibition ticket.

That wended its way to the park
another of Pasadena's great festivals
—an outpouring of floral wealth and beauty, held when in the East the reign of the rose has been closed long since. Every element in it went to make up a composite gem, rather a treasure chest of gems, poured out in regal magnificence before the throngs who worship at the shrine of the Crown City.

REVIEWED BY THE QUEEN.
At the park the floral dragon that had been winding through the streets
coiled itself around the wide half-mile track. Here it was possible to get a full view en masse of the bits that had been fitted into the gorgeous mosaic-bits that had been lovingly prepared for days, worked over during the night,
sent forth for their brief hour of triumph, soon to perish in their matterial form, but sure to remain in the memory storehouse of the onlookers.

The Queen and her ladies disembarked and took their seats in the tribune. Then the parade passed in review for the spectators to have their last look. The judges had been busy during the course of the parade, riding up and down the line and jotting in their books the merits of the entries.
By the time the parade passed in review the rewards of days of thought and labor were fluttering from their standards, proudly held aloft. Nothing but blue and red and yellow banners,
they will be treasured for years.

ter-General and Finance Minister under the lower and upper Canadian Union, and later Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, died yesterday, aged 54.

The Garfield School was represented by a motor-boat, running under its own power. Green and white was the general color scheme, peppers and margarites being used in profusion.
Masses of pepper berries, with here and there a bunch of the red berries intertwined formed the groundwork of the "ship," while the upper works were constructed almost entirely of margarites. Asparagus plumosus was used to form the combing, while at the stern flew American flags constructed entirely of red, white and blue blossoms. In addition to the engineer, who tended
the motor of the boat, there was a "crew" made up of the following pupils: Florence Jackson, Helen Soper, Florence Gray, Lucia Savage, Norma
Maret, Minnie Hume, Anna Bearth, Emily Schausella, Ruth Woolsey,
Grant Beveraux, Arthur La Cowala,
Brian Welch, Eddie Hand, Edward Frayne, Harold McDonald, Lee Coulton.

The Academy of the Holy Names entered one of the most pleasing floats of the entire parade. Green was the predominant color, palms and olea being chiefly used. Fan and olea palms were interspersed in artistic confusion with festoons of pepper berries swinging from the verdant canopy.
Bunches of pepper berries were used to lend color. The float was drawn by four horses, jet black in color and was proceeded by a bevy of fair pupils of the academy, attired in gown and mortarboards. The float itself was surmounted by a large canopy beneath which sat a number of the pupils of the school holding garlands of posies

in their hands.
The Madison School entry was a dainty auto float, decorated in margarites and smilax. Festoons of smilax were wrapped about the spokes
of the wheels, while conventional designs formed of margarites were fixed in artistic profusion about the body of the vehicle. Pupils of the school were seated in the vehicle, and an escort of boys preceded it. At the float passed through the streets the pupils sang festal songs, waving gar-lands of smilax and margarites in their hands.

The Wilson School entered a two-horse vehicle decorated with calla lilies and ferns. Festoons of smilax were draped along the sides of the carriage, and the harnesses of the horses were trimmed with smilax and ferns. Between clusters of lilies were tastefully
arranged clusters of asparagus plumo-sus, while an occasional bunch of violets lent color to the whole.

The McKinley School offering was one of the most beautiful of the school
floats and was a mass of red and green. Asparagus plumosus and red geraniums were the plants used and every inch of the vehicle was covered.
Over the top of the rig was swung a circular canopy of asparagus plumo-sus and the entire mass was surmounted by a large bunch of red geraniums. Instead of horses, twenty boys in white uniforms drew the rig
and inside the vehicle rode girl pupils
of the school.

The girls in the float were Ruth Hall,
Margaret Jackson, Grace Moore, Faith
Green, Mary Chaffee, Vera Crumb,
Ruth Lockwood and Faith Acosta.
The Altadena School float was the most thoroughly unique and took the shape of a Chinese religious procession.
The central figure was a small float in red, gold and green, in which were sitting girl pupils of the school in

EMBEZZLEMENT FIGURES.

The Total for Last Year Amounts to
to Almost Fifteen Million Dollars.

The total of embezzlements and kindred thefts for 1906 amounts to $11-729,663, about $5,000,000 more than last year. Of this total, $10,745,287 were stolen by officials of banks, $1,084,374
by public officials other than postoffice employees, $22,585 by the latter, $179,571 by agents, $24,100 from loan associations, $22,087 by means of forgeries, and the other defalcations,
amounting to $1,423,980, were so varied in their nature that they must be classed as miscellaneous.

The comparison with last year is not so much to the discredit of this year,
when it is remembered that more than $10,000,000 of the money embezzled was taken by three men—one in Chicago,
one in Philadelphia and one in Cuba,
the agent of a New York house. In each of these three cases the figures represent the total of many years of stealing which was discovered only this year. It is unfair to charge it all against the year 1906.
A better comparison will be made with the years 1894 to 1897. In 1894
the embezzlements, etc., amounted to $25,234,112, and for the next three years averaged over $10,000,000 a year. The special reason for the losses of 1894

was the consequence of the panic of the year before, but it must be remembered that the money in banks at that time was only about half as much as at present. If the percentage of loss is considered, the year 1896 is distinctly better than 1895, 1896 or 1897, although the loss in dollars is greater than any year since 1894.—(Chicago

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

"The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" shows Olga Nethersole at her best. There is room, in this realistic problem-piece of life's ups and downs, for an immense diversity in acting, and all these opportunities Miss Nethersole improves to an unusual degree.

Whatever the "use" of this play, whatever its service as an exposé of conditions in modern society, the many bits of fine humanity that its lines contain cannot be gainsaid. There are traits of nature in every scene, and not only in its central people, but in the minor contributors as well, the same lifelikeness remains.

Paula Tanqueray is a remarkable woman, even when placed among all the figures of modern dramatic literature, but it requires an actress of Olga Nethersole's power and insight to bring all her qualifications to the surface. Paula is at once strange and yet very ordinary, highly ludicrous and yet touchingly pathetic. In a multitude of "wronged women," the sort that wreck their own careers by an excess of emotion, misdirected thought or simple worry, Paula stands out as a believable, and therefore, enduring personage.

The play is not Pinero's newest, but it will endure as long as his name, chiefly for the realism with which he has portrayed this variety of character, which might well have been her own in life.

Of the supporting company, Mr. Miles and Mr. Clark stand out as the first as Aubrey Tanqueray, and the second as the breezy, hopeful, friendly, Mr. Miles is an excellent leading man. He has learned to control his powers; he does not rant on any occasion, and makes a study of truth rather than pose. Mr. Clark, who is evidently schooled in the college of experience and fine association, is a splendid impersonation of well-bred reality. He has mastered the art of acting so thoroughly that his audience forgets the actor altogether, and sees only the character.

Generally good support was accorded these three, especially by Miss Nethersole, who, with the exception of Clark, an overdone "naturalism" seems to have caused this, for in endeavoring to use voices that are purely conversational, the individual players have neglected to give them sufficient resonance to carry well. For the most part, Miss Nethersole avoids this, though at occasional moments she herself lapses. As before, it is another evidence of Mr. Clark's finished art that at no time do his sentences fall to be heard with clarity and distinctness.

Tonight Miss Nethersole will offer her personal version of "Adrienne Lecouvreur."

The Elery Band opened the new Hippodrome in Milwaukee last night, and dispatches said that more than 200 persons were unable to gain admission to the immense place.

JAIL DOORS OPEN.
Twenty-eight prisoners free on First Day of New Year. Happiness Has Alley.

Twenty-eight prisoners went free on New Year's Day. The jail doors were wide open for eleven hours and seventeen offenders. One by one they fled out, made a short visit to the property clerk, and were free. The law of the old jail, always ready to drink in the hapless culprit, showed out a motley horde of evil-doers.

Some were happy, but others grunted with disapproval. Several declared they would seek the nearest saloon and "celebrate" their release. They are back in jail again.

It is the custom on New Year's Day to release all "drunks" and minor offenders whose terms have almost expired. The list yesterday was one of the largest in years.

Crowded conditions at the City Jail were relieved by the order which freed twenty-four men, who were not affected by the order. These are the only serving sentences or awaiting trial.

NEW FIRE ORDINANCE.
Chief Lips Would Prohibit Storing of Inflammable Materials Within Certain Prescribed Limits.

The Chief Walter Lips will ask for a city ordinance prohibiting the storing of large quantities of hay within the city limits. Of late, it is said, little has been paid to the warning of the chief with regard to the storing of inflammable materials close to the business center. The proposed ordinance will make it a misdemeanor to store more than a certain quantity of hay in any building within certain prescribed limits.

There is an old city ordinance, now obsolete, which dealt with this subject. The ordinance prohibited the storing of more than ten tons of hay. It is believed the proposed ordinance will make the same limit.

NO CLEW TO ROBBER.

Descriptions of Ruffian Who Tried to Murder Grocer George Adams Differ.

There is no clew to the identity of the burglar who tried to murder Grocer George Adams Monday night at his store, No. 327 Pasadena avenue. Chief of Detectives Flinn says he has little hope of being able to locate the man who attempted to clean out the cash drawer of the corner grocer.

The several descriptions of the robber furnished by eye-witnesses of the shooting affray differ. No one seems to know just how the man looked. All are agreed that he fired a shot, but nobody can accurately describe him.

PASSES ARE TABOOED.

Ruling by Interstate Commerce Commission Prohibits Railways Giving Them in Territories.

According to a dispatch received yesterday from Washington, D. C., by the Los Angeles branch of the Santa Fe's law department, a ruling has been handed down by the Interstate Commerce Commission interpreting a clause of the Hepburn bill, and forbids the issue of passes between points within Territories of the United States.

The wording of the bill, forbidding the issuance of Interstate passes, made a moot question of the privileges of railroads in this respect within the limits of Arizona and other Territories, and there was considerable difference of legal opinion on the point. This decision of the commission defines the intention of the act clearly in relation to the Territories, over which the national government has direct supervision.

Factory Samples and Broken Lines

First Annual Sale of the Goodyear Raincoat Co.

3000 garments, broken lines from our regular stock, 2 or 3 alike, together with six sets of Salesman's Samples from our factory, 2000 samples in all and chiefly Priestly Cravenettes for men and women. These 5000 garments go on sale Wednesday, January 2, at figures that will dazzle the buying public of Los Angeles and surroundings.

Never in the history of Raincoatdom has such an important event taken place. Never again is it likely that a stupendous sale of this kind will occur again. Garments that have maintained their market values up to the minute will meet the fate of even less than half its worth.

NOTE—Priestly Garments are famed the world over for the highest standard of waterproofing.

In this great clean-up you will find mostly Priestly Cravenettes for Men and Women, built by tailors that know every detail of the raincoat. The 5000 garments on sale represent the novelty of genius and the glory of our workshop.

Opportunity Knocks But Once

Think of buying Ladies' Cravenette Raincoats at $2.50, the kinds we sold for $7.50. Latest fashions, loose, belted and fitted backs, some trimmed with velvet, $2.50 instead of $7.50. Another lot, $5.50 instead of $10—men's and women's 11-wool Serge Raincoats, blue, tan and oxford, plaid lining. These are broken lines and good range of sizes left. $10 values at $2.50.

Think of buying high-grade Ladies' Cravenettes, all fine weaves, broken lines and factory samples, $6 instead of $15. Hardly conceivable yet true: Ladies' Silk Rubberized Coats, assorted colors, good range of sizes left, $22 kinds, sale price $9.50.

Nothing spared—everything goes—$5 buys men's fine Cravenette Raincoats, valued at $15.50. Every item a surprise. Think of buying Priestly Cravenette Men's Raincoats, all wool—the name alone stands for perfection—at $9.75. This is the broken line price. Regular $22 garment, all fabrics.

$13.75 buys the very finest London cut and imported fabrics, very fine textures. Priorly sold from $28 to $35. Nearly given away: Boys' and Girls' Mackintoshes and Raincoats.

SPECIAL—This sale is of vast importance to you. The values are the boldest ever offered for staple merchandise. Come, see for yourself and be convinced of the stupendousness of this great sale. Descriptions and prices do not convey the magnitude of our great offers. We invite your earnest scrutiny.

The High School float was an elaborate and fine job representing the "Mask of Poly." Pink and white were the dominating colors and carnations were used liberally. The float was decorated after the fashion of a parade float and arranged in such a manner as to give the appearance of being one entire mass of flowers. Carnations, roses and smilax were introduced in such a way as to act as a trimming rather than as a decoration.

Riding in the float were the following pupils of the school: Helen Canright, Margaret Egan, Mary Ann Gaudin, Margaret Percy, Carol Comen, Mary Miller, Ethel Henderson, Helen Rowland, Marie Twyman, Vera Phelps, Edna Lockett, Virginia Brown, Elizabeth Hartman. The following young women were mounted on horseback: Edna Lockett, Grace Gillmor, Virginia Schwartz, Ida May Allen. Clarence was acted as trumpeter and the attendants were Miss Ruth Rouse, Betty Kern, Clayton Carson, Paul Smith, Wilber Smith, George Whipple, Harold Hays, William Hays, Fred W. Brown, Fibben, Henry Collier, Clayton Gard, Mortimer Hall, Eric Kobbé, Herbert Stinson, Elmer Hertzel and Charles Stimson.

The realty dealers entered an allegorical float representing the "East and West." On one side was a scene in the Oregon East, snow lying over the hills and the people dressed in skins and overcoats. On the other side was represented a scene in California with overhanging orange trees laden down with fruit and the people in summer vehicle bore the word "Pasadena." Real orange trees were used to carry out the scheme and the residents of the "Land of Sunshine" were eating oranges from the trees overhead.

The Pasadena cloisters were represented by a beautiful float decorated with flowers and garlands of flowers plumed. "The Horn of Plenty" was chosen as the emblem of the city and the float was decorated lavishly used in carrying out the idea.

An artistic float, representing the old woman in the "Shoe," Pepper and red geraniums were the decorations used, while a mass of peppermints formed the groundwork of the shoe. The smallest detail, even to the eyelets and lacing, was covered, and each part of the shoe carefully worked out in some form of fern design. In the float Harriet, A. Three Morning Hours on Pacific Electric's Several Lines from Los Angeles to Pasadena, and State Roads Haul Their Share.

In a stream of jostling, struggling humanity that knew no cessation three hours, the horde of sightseers poured into Pasadena yesterday morning from Los Angeles. Thirty ered that the big system had undertaken an impossible task. The greatest crisis was between 10 o'clock. It was then that the people from the beaches and from the car-parks poured into Los Angeles to join with its residents in the fight for the goal. Some of the people went out in this hour were literally covered by masses of arms hanging to the roofs and to the eaves of the open portions, in immense danger of disaster.

The steam roads were not taxed heavily, although it required the movement of many special trains to handle
the traffic that went their way.
